SPECULATION AS TO CHOICE

(Copyright, 1903, by New York Herald Co.)
[Special Cable to The Gazette.]

Rome, Aug. 2.—The Roman populace assembled twice today in the Piazza di San Pietro to watch the "Efumata" issue from the Sistine chapel. The crowd was particularly large in the afternoon and, on account of the day being Sunday, the people congregated in the great square and were even more numerous than yesterday. When the smoke became visible the cry again rose all over the piazza: "The smoke, the smoke: no pope, no pope." Then the vast crowd gradually melted away.

The opinion most generally expressed is that a determined conflict is proceeding between the most prominent candidates and that in view of the impossibility of either leading "papabili" obtaining a majority, the conclave is repeating its ballots with a view to the selection of a neutral pope.

In the meantime numerous dispatches of congratulations have arrived at the vatican for the leading "papabili" addressed to "His Holiness Pope Gotti," "His Holiness Pope Rampolla," and so on. These messages have been sent into the conclave through the turning boxes. Among those members of the vatican world who have remained outside the conclave the opinion prevails that the choice lies between Cardinal Rampolla and Cardinal Seradino Vannutelli, and that the conclave may continue several days longer.

Citizens Grow Anxious.

The prolongation of the contest has aroused tremendous public interest. Every trace of that apathy which followed the death of the late pope has vanished and instead there now exists a burning interest in everything pertaining to the election of his successor.

Tonight this culminated in the appearance of a great crowd, which packed the great square of St. Peter's, and presented a spectacle seldom seen, even at the site of so many historic ceremonies. Princes, princesses, archbishops, bishops, monseigneurs, priests, well-to-do business people, in short, people from every walk of life, from the nobleman to street beggar, talk of nothing but the smoke from the burning ballots. Both this morning and this evening this was the lodestone which drew tens of thousands to the square of St. Peter's. There for hours, with strained eyes and craned necks, they waited in the hope of seeing a tiny little stream of smoke, so insignificant that it was almost impossible to realize that a great issue was involved in its fleeting appearance.

Streets Black With People.

After the fruitless morning ballot a belief spread that a new pontiff would surely be elected this evening. The regular Sunday leisure was forgotten in the anxiety to see the new occupant of the see. The streets converging into St. Peter's became black with the people. From the barracks came large reinforcements of troops, who marched across the piazzas and lined up at the foot of the steps of the basilica, leaving only small spaces between the companies, in order to prevent a sudden rush to get inside St. Peter's to witness the new pope give his blessing to the Catholic world.

A strong force of cavalry was picketed near by in case of riot and over 2,000 soldiers were posted in the square. But the troops made only an insignificant, thin, blue line compared with the vast multitude around them. By 6 o'clock it was estimated that 50,000 people occupied the vast amphitheater. From the steps of the basilica, which were black with those standing or sitting, across to the opposite side of the square, there stretched far as the eye could see an undulating sea of humanity, with every face riveted on the Sistine chapel, waiting for the smoke of the ballots.

Almost encircling this great audience rose, the stately pillars of the colonnade, beneath which many rested and waited. Near by hundreds of cabs were drawn up, their occupants eagerly scanning, through glasses, the little smokestack of the chapel. Stretching away for over a quarter of a mile, a distance from which it would have been absolutely impossible to see the smoke, were other thousands waiting to know the result.

The rays of the setting sun glancing from the dome of St. Peter's lit up the housetops at the opposite end of the square and these also were crowded with anxious watchers. Among the vast throng in the square itself were many German students whose scarlet cassocks formed vivid patches of color.

When the hour of 6 struck a tremor of expectancy ran through the multitude because, according to yesterday's program the burning of the ballots or the announcement of an election would come within a few minutes. When the quarter hour sounded the nervousness increased and a large number of officials of the vatican, not engaged in the conclave, emerged to watch the concourse. As the hand of the clock on St. Peter's approached the half hour a rumor that a selection had been made developed in the minds of many into a certainty and each one momentarily expected some favored cardinal to be announced as the new pontiff.

The Tiny Stream of Smoke.

Suddenly, exactly at 6:40 p. m., a sharp cry arose, "Ecco, ecco." Instantly the cry was taken up by 50,000 throats and grew and grew until the immense piazza fairly roared with "Ecco, ecco; la efumata." Then silence fell like a spell,

SERVIA IS NEAR TO BANKRUPTCY

Government Has Not Enough Funds to Send Consul to New York.

KING IS IN JEOPARDY

ABDICATION IS PROBABLE

[Special Cable to The Gazette.]

Vienna, Aug. 2.—The new Servian consul named by King Peter for the consulate at New York has declined to accept the position as the government at Belgrade not only was unable to pay his salary, but did not even have money enough to pay his trip to New York.

It has long been known that the Servian treasury was absolutely empty and that the government had no money for even the smallest expenses. King Peter's crown, which he was so anxious to get that he ordered it from a Paris firm even before he was sure of his position, has not yet been delivered, as the jewelers will give no credit to his Servian majesty.

The same has happened with a large amount of coin and stamps ordered, both here and in Paris. At present the Servian stamps show the head of the murdered king, Alexander, though an attempt has been made to obliterate them with a rubber stamp with the Servian coat-of-arms.

It is the general belief here that King Peter's reign will last, at the most, only six months. His position is already exceedingly difficult and he has already made himself hated by all the parties. A few days ago an attempt was made to poison him, and several conspirators against the king have been discovered in the konalk.

The fact that the conspirators were all army officers has caused the king great anxiety, as he had counted on strong support from the army. Both Russia and Austria are unsatisfied with his rule, especially on account of his intrigues against Prince Ferdinand of Bulgaria and the Russian ambassador has warned the king that these intrigues must stop, as they endanger the peace of the Balkans.

It is, however, thought and reported here, on very good authority, that Prince Ferdinand of Bulgaria, who a few days ago visited the court here, will abdicate in the near future if his secretary of state does not succeed in placating Russia and allay the bitter feeling against him in the Bulgarian army which has resulted from the events in Macedonia.

In spite of all official denials it is a well-known fact that Prince Ferdinand's present absence from Bulgaria is caused by his fear of sharing the fate of King Alexander and that he intends personally to appeal to Emperor Francis Joseph and the czar for protection.

INVENTED NEW ENGINE

Western Architect Claims to Have Discovered Another Mechanical Fake.

WAUKESHA, WIS., Aug. 2.—(Special.)—George Partillo, a mill and factory architect, has invented a device which he styles a buoyantic engine, which, if what is claimed for it is true, will work a revolution in the industrial world, furnishing as it will power at a cost so small that the expense of operation will be practically nothing.

The machine is termed a buoyantic engine from the fact that it derives its power from buoyancy, the same force that would bring to the surface of a body of water with its broadest side exposed, a board that had with seemingly no resistance be immersed edgewise. This is the principle upon which this new engine works. Through the use of air chambers with automatic opening and closing devices, he has perfected an engine which will derive enough energy from still water to run as long as it is partly submerged.

RETURNED FROM SKIBO.

Several Pittsburgh Relatives of Andrew Carnegie Are Once More in London.

LONDON, Aug. 2.—(Copyright Cable.)—London, so far as the West End is concerned, looked very desolate today, but nevertheless there was a good many comings and goings of well-known Americans. Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Carnegie, T. M. Carnegie and Mr. and Mrs. Oliver G. Ricketson of Pittsburgh arrived from Skibo Castle, and are at Claridge's hotel.

H. L. Phipps, who has been at the same hotel, passed the Carnegies on the railroad on his way to Beauly Castle, Scotland.

KILLED HIS LANDLORD AND THREATENED WIFE

MAHANOY CITY, PA., Aug. 2.—(Special.)—Because he refused to help him avenge a beating received at the hands of a fellow countryman, Vincent Gregor shot and killed his boarding boss, John Prohanitz, at Buck Mountain this morning. Gregor, after firing the fatal shot, seized the dead man's wife and threatened to kill her if she made an outcry. He escaped to the woods and is still a fugitive. The killing was the culmination of a fight at a picnic during which Gregor, who arrived on Friday from Canada, was worsted.

Thieves Steal $80,000 of Jewelry.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL., Aug. 2.—(Special.)—A special cable from Honolulu states that burglars entered the house of Col. Samuel Parker, a millionaire, during the absence of the family and secured jewelry valued at $80,000 belonging to Mrs. Parker.

TOOK HER HORSES AND WENT HOME

Mr. and Mrs. John Gerken of New York.

Mrs. Gerken is the well-known horsewoman who created a sensation at the Long Branch horse show by tearing the "highly commended" ribbon from her saddle horse, throwing it disdainfully to the ground and riding from the ring. Then she withdrew all her entries, 15 in number, and sent them to New York.

KING HOPES FOR A BRIGHTER DAY

Edward Says Island's Future Depends Upon Their Own Endeavors.

WAS TOUCHED BY KINDNESS

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]

Cowes, Isle of Wight, Aug. 2.—The royal yacht Victoria and Albert reached here this evening and King Edward immediately ordered the issue of the following address:

To My Irish People:

I desire on leaving Ireland to express to my Irish people how deeply I have been touched by the kindness and good will they have shown to the queen and myself. Our experience on previous visits had indeed prepared us for a traditional welcome of a warm-hearted race, but our expectations have been exceeded. Wherever we have gone, in town or country, tokens of loyalty and affection proffered by every section of the community, have made an enduring impression upon our hearts.

For a country so attractive and a people so gifted, we cherish the warmest regard, and it is therefore with supreme satisfaction that I have so often during our stay heard the hope expressed that a brighter day is dawning upon Ireland. I shall eagerly await the fulfillment of this hope. Its realization will, under divine Providence, depend largely upon the steady development of self-reliance and co-operation, upon better and more practical education, upon the growth of industrial and commercial enterprise, and upon that increase of mutual toleration and respect which the responsibility of my Irish people will develop in the public administration of their local affairs is well fitted to teach.

It is my earnest prayer that these and other means of national well being may multiply from year to year in Ireland, and that the blessings of peace, contentment and prosperity may be abundantly vouchsafed to her.

(Signed) EDWARD R. AND I.

August 1.

Copies of the address will be posted throughout Ireland tomorrow.

Before leaving Queenstown the king summoned Horace Plunkett, vice president of the department of agriculture and technical instruction for Ireland, aboard the royal yacht and complimented him on the work in Ireland's behalf, conferred the honor of knighthood and presented him with a knight commandership of the Victorian cross, saying: "I wish you to take it as a personal gift from myself."

The king further commanded the lord lieutenant of Ireland to announce that his majesty had received from Lord Iveagh £250, to be devoted to the Dublin hospitals, Catholic as well as Protestant, in memory of the king's visit.

Their majesties received a great reception on their arrival here. They remained on board the royal yacht, where they were visited this evening by the prince of Wales. Cowes is already gay with people who have come for the week of yachting. Among those here are many prominent Americans. The American yachts include Mrs. Goelet's Nahma and the Margarita, under the charter of James Henry Smith. King Edward's Britannia and Emperor William's Meteor, which are to race during the regatta, are both here.

The king will have a busy week. Entertainments, either aboard the royal yacht or ashore, have been planned for each day.

WANT A WESTERN MAN.

Vice President Must Be Man of Same Type as Roosevelt.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—(Special.)—Gen. Powell Clayton United States minister to Mexico, discussed Republican national campaign plans with Senator Platt at the Oriental hotel, Manhattan beach today. The general, who is the member of the national committee from Arkansas, said:

"I find a strong sentiment in favor of holding the national convention in Chicago. There appears to be no doubt of the nomination of President Roosevelt. I expect that his running mate will be a western man of pretty much the same type, if he can be found. What effect the negro question will have in the delegates from the south I cannot foresee."

ENEMY TO SAIL UP THE COAST

Naval Maneuvers of North Atlantic Squadron Are Now Under Way.

Bar Harbor, Me., Aug. 2.—"The enemy," especially prepared for the naval maneuvers of the North Atlantic fleet of the United States navy, will steam out of Bar Harbor at 5 o'clock tomorrow morning to make its preparations for the operations against the Maine coast. The squadron which will attack the United States will be under the command of Rear Admiral Sands, and it is said here today that his fleet will consist of the battleships Indiana, Massachusetts and Texas and three torpedo boat destroyers.

"The enemy" will be given a start until Wednesday noon and then the defending fleet, under Rear Admiral Barker, will put out to sea to begin the search problem. Admiral Sands and his fleet will try to make a landing and establish a foothold. If they are in any port for five hours without being discovered they will win the victory. If they fail the victory will go to the defenders. Admiral Barker will have his choice of the remaining ships and he will probably take all of the vessels, except those which have masts. He will have with him in his fleet Rear Admirals Wise and Coghlan.

The commanding admiral moved his flag from the Illinois to the Kearsarge yesterday and the pride of the navy will be the flagship of the fleet upon which rests the safety of the coast.

TRIAL OF CALEB POWERS WILL BE STARTED TODAY

This Makes Third Time He Is to Be Tried for Murder of Gov. Goebel.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

GEORGETOWN, KY., Aug. 2.—For the third time Caleb Powers is to be placed on trial for his life here tomorrow. Powers, who was the Republican candidate for secretary of state in 1899 and occupying that office when William Goebel was assassinated from a window of his office in the executive building at Frankfort, was indicted for complicity in the murder of Goebel and arrested at Lexington in March, 1900, while trying to make his escape in the disguise of a soldier.

Since that time he has been in jail most of the time at this place. The evidence against him was quite strong at both his former trials, each of which resulted in a verdict of guilty with punishment by a life sentence in the penitentiary. He appealed his case each time and in both instances the higher court reversed the decision by a strictly partisan vote.

Now the political complexion of the court of appeals has changed, there being a Democratic majority, and the testimony of Henry E. Youtsey, who accepted a life sentence, makes a stronger case against him, and it is believed he may fare even worse. Judge J. E. Robbins of Mayfield ha been appointed special judge by Gov. Beckham to try the case.

SACRIFICE OF A DOG FOR MASTER'S FAMILY

ELIZABETH, N. J., Aug. 2.—(Special.)—Had it not been for the timely warning, given by the barking of their faithful house dog, the family of Richard Jennings would have perished in their beds early today. A policeman heard the noise made by the animal, and thinking burglars were at work, he hastened to the dwelling, where he found the kitchen in flames. He aroused the sleeping inmates. In the excitement, the dog, to whose barking the family owed their lives, was forgotten, and his charred body was found in the kitchen when the blaze was extinguished.

"THINGS ARE VERY CHAOTIC"

Thomas S. Bigelow Does Not Take Rosy View of the Local Situation.

GUFFEY DETERMINED

Colonel Will Insist That William J. Brennen Be Nominated for District Attorney.

FISHING FOR J. A. CLARK

The above was the answer given yesterday afternoon by Thomas S. Bigelow to a query about the local political situation. He is at last convinced that the Democrats are determined to have fusion at their own terms, and much trouble is in sight for the leaders of the Citizens party.

Director James W. Clark, secretary of the Citizens party, takes a rosier view of the situation than does his chief. He thinks that it will be easy to secure fusion this fall, and is confident that there will be a union of forces. In his opinion, however, there will be no slating of candidates until after the Republicans have nominated their ticket on September 23.

Bigelow also intimated yesterday that he is keeping tab on the movements of James A. Clark, who is clothed with authority to name the Democratic fusion committee. When asked if he knew when Clark would return to Pittsburgh, he replied: "He is due Monday." Col. J. M. Guffey is also keeping track of Clark, and the indications are that the Democratic city chairman will report to the colonel.

Said Question Was Leading.

In order to clear away the uncertainty about the possibility of fusion between the Citizens and Democrats, Bigelow was asked whether it was the intention of the Citizens to fuse with the Democrats. He studied for a moment and then replied:

"The question is too leading; I cannot answer it."

Bigelow was uncertain as to what steps would be taken this week toward bringing about fusion. He admits that it will be necessary to first call his fusion committee together and extend a formal invitation to the Democrats to go into a slate-making conference. He says that he does not expect to have a meeting of the committee this week. At the same time he will not say that nothing will be done this week to bring about fusion.

It is no longer a secret that Col. Guffey has taken the reins on the Democratic end. It is this that worries Bigelow. As they say in the oil country, there is to be a fishing job this week. Both Bigelow and Guffey want to catch James A. Clark and hold him. If Bigelow can convince the county commissioner that he should go his way in the making of a fusion ticket, then the Citizens will have plain sailing, but if Guffey induces Clark to pull with him it will be difficult to forecast what will happen.

Guffey Is Determined.

Col. Guffey is determined that W. J. Brennen is to be nominated for district attorney. There is reason for believing that he will persist in this to the extent of refusing to agree to fusion. Guffey has been at work on his plans for months. Long before the Democratic primaries were held the scheme was conceived, and work was started. James A. Clark, W. J. Brennen and George S. Fleming were instructed to get control of the Democratic county convention. Charles A. Fagan was not to be allowed to have a finger in the pie. Fagan made no attempt to fight the combination, but the three men took no chances. They fought every friend of Fagan who attempted to be a delegate to the convention.

The result was that the last county convention was controlled by Col. Guffey. Today his friends have no doubt about the position of Clark. They are confident that he will stick to the colonel. A fusion committee will be named to the liking of Guffey. The one important demand made of the Citizens will be that they agree to the nomination of Brennen. Unless there is a complete backdown from the present plan fusion will depend entirely on the naming of Brennen.

Bigelow Has Other Plans.

It has taken Bigelow a long time to convince himself that Col. Guffey really means to stand out for the nomination of Brennen. Bigelow wants one of his own friends named for this office. His real choice is Harry L. Goehring of Allegheny, and it will be hard for him to surrender to the demands of the Democrats. Every possible string will be pulled before the Citizens leaders will give in. The district attorney, in the event of success of fusion this fall, is a powerful club to put in the hands of the Democrats. It can be successfully played against the city administration.

For this reason Bigelow is slow to start the fusion movement. He first wants to get Clark, and, failing in that, other cards will be played to induce the Democrats to surrender their claims to the district attorneyship. If he can accomplish this there will be a speedy getting together of the two parties. As matters now stand Bigelow has every reason for believing that "things are very chaotic." Last year the fusion ticket was named before July 4, but now the plan is to delay until after the Republicans set the pace. This tardiness will also give opportunity to secure concessions from the Democrats.

PRICE OF FRESH BEEF WILL BE AGAIN RAISED

OMAHA, NEB., Aug. 2. (Special.)—The price of fresh beef is to be raised throughout the country, according to reports in South Omaha. Already the raise has taken place in a number of western cities, and is expected to reach New York and the east during the present week. On choice meats two and one-half cents per pound is added, while other classes are raised proportionately.

SUBURBS' SUNDAY TROUBLES; DISGUISES AT KENNYWOOD; WILKINSBURG WORKED UP

Park Visitors Puzzled by False Whiskers, Paint and Goggles.

MYSTERY EXPLAINED

Methods Adopted to Baffle Those Who Would Stop Sabbath Amusements.

HAVE HOPES FOR SUCCESS

Those who visited Kennywood yesterday—and there were thousands who did—wondered in amazement at the grotesque disguises adopted by the employes of the amusement company. The disguises, while unique, were palpable, and the patrons thought it merely a new trick of an enterprising management. But it was not. It was for the purpose of baffling the church people who are intent upon putting a stop to this Sunday amusement. They were baffled.

For some time the church people of Braddock and Homestead, aided by the ministerial associations of the two places, have been trying to put a stop to the operation of Kennywood park on Sunday. Since the only way to reach the management was through the employes, the latter were sued and heavy fines and costs levied.

All Labeled John Doe.

The church people had spotters in the parks on Sundays, and they would carefully single out those who were doing work there. On the next day warrants would be sworn out before justices of the peace, the defendants being labelled "John Doe." During the day the spotters would visit the park with officers of the law, point out those they had seen working on Sunday, the day before, and these men would be arrested. For conviction a fine of $25 and costs was imposed.

This became monotonous to the amusement people, and through their energetic manager, George Dodge, a scheme was put into operation that may prove effective in preventing suits. The scheme was operated yesterday for the first time and Mr. Dodge is confident of its success.

Employes in Disguise.

The employes of the park, some 30 in number, were disguised in all sorts of shapes. There were several men blackened to represent negroes. Close inspection penetrated this disguise. At the entrance to the steeplechase were two men disguised as Frenchmen, with flowing mustache and goatee and green goggles. They looked the parts of Alphonse and Gaston, as they took tickets. For starters at the steeplechase were men with flowing side whiskers a la taffy. One dignified old gentleman, disguised as a preacher, was busily engaged as a door talker, or "barker," urging people to go inside and explore the mysteries of the interior.

Nearly all wore green goggles, and the whiskers and mustaches were made of curled hair. The disguises were effective in attracting attention and in hiding the identity of the individual, but that they were in disguise was plainly evident.

Mystified the Visitors.

"Get on to the Sherlock Holmes," some one would say. Another would state that the man was "Foxy Quiller," and so on, but every one at the park was mystified as to the cause of the disguise. After puzzling their heads for some time the general conclusion was reached that it was merely an amusement trick to attract comment.

It is argued by the amusement management that none of the spotters will be able today to identify any of those employed on the grounds. This morning the two gatemen, the Frenchies, will be at work at some other part of the grounds, and the spotters will be unable to pick out the offenders. Other employes will be changed about.

There were a number of employes in the park yesterday who were not disguised. But these were only employed for the day, and will not be on the premises when the spotters come around today with their warrants.

Mr. Dodge was working in full view of everyone, and more than likely he will be prosecuted today. But he says he is satisfied, as the spotters will not be able to prosecute any other men connected with the park. He stated that in the event of a false arrest, suit will be entered at once.

Avalanche of New Suits Started or to Come Later.

ARRESTS HAVE BEGUN

Assistant County Detectives Take Names of Persons Riding in Automobiles.

WHISKY IN THE ICE WATER

Astronomical time was used by the druggists' committee of five in Wilkinsburg, and by that calculation at exactly six seconds past 12 o'clock this morning G. W. McGrath, representing the committee, made information before Justice of the Peace J. J. Walker against S. S. Cotell, W. S. Stout, J. C. Cauly, W. L. Smith, druggists, and seven clerks employed by them, on charges of selling soda water on Sunday.

These men will receive a hearing on Wednesday, when they will doubtless be fined, as the druggists are working together. The fines, however, will be remitted, and no other prosecutions can be entered by the church people's committee, as the druggists will have already been prosecuted and convicted for the offense of selling yesterday.

Exactly at midnight, the church committee of 12, who were not using astronomical time, called at the residence of Burgess John A. Keys in Southern avenue, presumably to make information against the same druggists and their seven clerks. If they had found the burgess they would have been able to enter the suits prior to the time the other suits were entered.

County Detectives at Work.

But Burgess Keys was not at home, and a rumor soon permeated Wilkinsburg that he was off somewhere receiving informations. Where no one knew.

Another thing to give the residents of the strenuous borough additional excitement yesterday was the fact that several of the new force of county detectives were in the borough yesterday, and many thought they were there in pursuance of some Sunday selling investigation.

For whom they were doing their work is not known. District Attorney John S. Haymaker and County Detective Robert G. Robinson are both out of town, and could not have sent the men out to Wilkinsburg.

It is understood that the druggists are going after the newsdealers and operators of slot machines. Automobiling in the borough is also about to come under the ban. Automobilists, whether residents of the borough or not, if seen driving their machines on the borough roads on Sunday will be prosecuted.

Wilkinsburg has not had quite enough Sunday trouble, it seems. To alleviate the sufferings of those they intended to prevent drinking Sunday soda, the church people of the borough thoughtfully placed at various corners large barrels containing pure and sparkling ice water. Those who sipped copious draughts of the clear fluid yesterday studied for a moment, and some refused to swallow the water.

Whisky in the Water.

The fluid had a peculiar taste, and the uninitiated knew not what caused it. A more experienced person came along, tasted the water and made the strange statement that whisky in large quantities had been poured into the barrels, thus rendering the water, to some, unfit to drink. There were others in the borough, however, who developed an unheard of taste for water yesterday after the remarkable discovery had been made.

Warrants in the retaliatory suits against the singers of the First Presbyterian church, Wilkinsburg; the employes of the Enterprise Brick works, the Franklin Brick Company and the Pennsylvania Ice Company, some 50 in all, will be served today. These persons will be heard before Justice of the Peace J. J. Walker on Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

The open Sunday faction had made elaborate arrangements to start the wheels of justice. In order that not a moment would be wasted they established communication with the Allegheny observatory and upon the stroke of 12 o'clock measured with mathematical accuracy, their prosecutors were ready with the legal papers. In an amazingly short time the informations against Sunday violators were signed and sworn.

Keeping Them Guessing.

Greater deliberation marked the work of the church people. Their committee made no haste. They moved about with

PRESIDENT INSULTED BY VILLAGE LOUNGER

Serious Indignity Offered to Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt While En Route to Church by Profane Resident of Oyster Bay.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Aug. 2.—President and Mrs. Roosevelt had an unpleasant and exasperating experience here today while attending service at Christ Episcopal church. As is their custom, they drove from Sagamore Hill to the morning service. One of the children was with them. As the carriage turned into the church yard, the way was obstructed by a villager named Butler, who stood lounging on his bicycle. The horse shied to one side, but Butler, without moving, exclaimed angrily:

"—— you; do you want the whole road?"

Mrs. Roosevelt sat on the side of the carriage nearest to the profane villager, and her cheeks flushed, while the face of the president became pale with indignation. Two secret service men were near and they hustled Butler away, so that the president's party could alight.

The insult was evidently intentional, but the incident was trivial, and would have attracted no attention had not the president of the United States been involved. This is the first time any affront has been offered President Roosevelt during a sojourn in Oyster Bay.

The president had no callers, and spent the day quietly with his family. It does not expect to [illegible] coming [illegible]

a mysterious air that disconcerted the Sabbath breakers. They said they would keep their opponents "guessing," and that it would be at least three days before the adherents to the Sunday open door would know which way the Sabbatarian wind would blow.

Scouts from both camps were out all day long. The militant members of the committee of twelve from the churches and the committee of five, representing the druggists, rested on their arms prepared for an immediate summons to service. Both parties practiced secrecy. Five captains of the church party spent the day out of the city, and the soda water mixers feared that they had gone away to hold a secret caucus with the burgess. The members of the church committee who remained in the town refused to talk about the crusade except to wink the other eye and say that they had a card up their sleeves that would beat any trick their opponents would attempt to play.

Noisy in Wilkinsburg.

Sunday was a noisy day, measured by the Wilkinsburg standard of peaceful conduct. The drug stores were open and the fizz of the soda fountains broke the Sabbatic stillness. The Sunday newspapers were sold, robes and cigars were on sale, the ice plant was in operation and paid choirs sang anthems. Miss Carolyn Schroth, the plucky and beautiful soprano in the choir of the Wilkinsburg Presbyterian church, defied arrest and yesterday was at her post.

The public drinking fountains had no patrons. The thirsty faction refused to drink the water because it was cooled with ice from the local plant which mixes its ammonia on Sunday, and the other people either did not care for the water or remembered that they had refrigerators and water coolers at home. The visitors from the city drank soda water and unwittingly gave the druggists a boom.

There is not a citizen in Wilkinsburg who is not more or less confused as what constitutes a violation of the blue laws, and many are prone to get tangled up on the legal and the moral aspects of the question. In the town are a number of newspaper reporters who are obliged to work all Sunday afternoon and night in order to get up "copy" for their Monday editions and yesterday it was even hinted that these men would be caught in the dragnet. It being argued that they were quite as open to prosecution as the singers in church choirs. H. E. Carmack, attorney for the church party, explained some of the features of the law. He said:

Position of the Church People.

"This crusade is being carried on by broad-minded men, and the laws they are seeking to enforce are neither impractical nor puritanical. The law as it appears on the statute books is broad, and it is a matter for the courts to interpret the exceptions, to define work of charity and necessity which is permitted on the Lord's day. For example, it has been decided that large manufacturing plants where the stopping of work for a day would incur great loss and damage to material are immune from prosecution. Choir singers and church employes, liverymen, the traction companies and all who are engaged in similar work cannot be prosecuted according to the precedents of the courts, and it is simply a waste of time to attempt to counteract the effect of legitimate prosecutions with ridiculous procedure. It is not the purpose of the church people to harass anybody. They are only working for the community that that kind of peace and good conduct which they believe the majority of the people desire."

A meeting of the committee of twelve will be held this week to felicitate one another on the success of the past and to plan for the future campaign. Since the crusade was opened two months ago meat shops, bakeries, cigar stands, news depots and confectioneries have been closed, and the advocates of the quiet Sunday are more than pleased with their progress in breaking the inroads of the continental Sabbath.

OFFER A COMPROMISE

Company Makes Proposition to Pay Families of Hanna Disaster Victims.

SALT LAKE, UTAH, Aug. 2.—(Special.)—The Union Pacific Coal Company has offered to settle with the relatives of the men killed in the Hanna mine explosion, on the basis of $250 for the unmarried man and $500 to be paid to each widow, with $50 additional for each child in the family. The company contends that it is free from any responsibility as to the manner in which these men met their fate, but offers to compromise on the above basis.

It is not probable that the proposition will be accepted for a time, or until after the investigation by the coroner's jury concerning the cause of the disaster. Inquiry over the remains of the victims will begin Monday. It will be several weeks before it is concluded.

SEVERAL SMALL BLAZES.

Flames were discovered on the roof of a stable in the rear of No. 222 Ulysses street, Mt. Washington, about 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon. A defective flue in the house of Wilhelmina Schiller, No. 6379 Penn avenue, did little damage.

A slight fire at the home of Sarah Gobbs, colored, No. 10 Scott street, was caused by a lighted lamp being upset. The building was damaged to the extent of $50.

The chimney of a house at No. 613 First street, Allegheny, caught fire last night, but the blaze was extinguished before any damage was done.

A false alarm was sounded about 11:30 o'clock yesterday morning from box 322, near the Point bridge.

AMERICANS SECURE BIG MEXICAN SILVER MINE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—(Special.)—Former Senator John P. Jones is elated over news he received from Mexico today that negotiations have been closed for the purchase of property known as the Canoaya group of mines, immediately adjoining the famous mine of Pedro Alveredo, who recently offered to pay $50,000,000 of the Mexican national debt. Associated with him are Eugene Davis of this city and John F. Cowen, former president of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad. Senator Jones says it means more to him than the Comstock lode, which made him a multi-millionaire and brought him into public attention.

HIGHWAYMAN HAD AN EASY VICTIM

MADE VERY EASY ESCAPE

Victim Caught Up With the Thief, but Permitted Himself to Be Made a Dupe of the Second Time—Police Have No Clew.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Unusual efforts have been made by the police of the city to suppress the fact that William H. Gallinger, son of United States Senator Gallinger of New Hampshire, was held up and robbed two weeks ago at One Hundred Thirty-ninth street and Seventh avenue. Mr. Gallinger started out to post a letter. At One Hundred Thirty-ninth street and Seventh avenue, as he put the letter in the box, he noticed a tall, thin man, wearing a slouch hat, approaching him.

The newcomer inquired how he could reach the nearest "L" station and then complained he had no money with which to pay his fare. Mr. Gallinger offered to provide the money, and was seeking a dime in his pocket, when on looking up he was startled to see a muzzle of a revolver in his face.

"Say, old man," rejoined the stranger, "just throw away your change, but hand us out your bills."

As directed Gallinger handed over a roll containing $60 and his gold watch and chain, worth $125. Still covering him with the gun, the robber took the money and the watch, and, placing it in his pocket, ordered him to give over two rings which he wore. Nearing One Hundred and Fortieth street Gallinger says the man put the weapon in his pocket and started to run. Gallinger's courage returned then and he proceeded to chase the thief.

Between Seventh and Eighth avenues he overtook the highwayman and asked two men who stood near to assist him in holding him captive until they could call a policeman. The thief denied that he had stolen anything. The men, thinking it was simply a quarrel, declined to interfere. The highwayman then started for Eighth avenue, telling Gallinger to go along with him.

"I'll be pinched me," said Gallinger tonight, "that if I would go with him he would give me the money and the watch and rings on the corner if I would let him have the small change. I went with him, thinking I could get a policeman. At the corner he shoved me into a saloon and then ran up the stairs of the 'L' station and boarded a southbound train. I followed him, but before I reached the platform the train was moving and the guard refused to open the gate for me."

TWO BALLOTS MORE; NO POPE ELECTED

while the thousands watched from the tin smokestack in the Sistine chapel a tiny stream of light gray smoke curl lazily downward. With no wind to carry it, it was the smoke hung heavily in the hot air and then gradually disappeared.

For a moment the crowd believed that the signal meant an election, for there is a tradition that the cardinals are allowed to send up a little smoke as a notification of an election and much smoke in the case of a disagreement. Any such hopes, however, were almost immediately dissipated when a cloud of very thick smoke emerged and continued for five minutes.

With many ejaculations of dissappointment the populace watched the last trace of the ballots disappear and then dispersed, although it was a long time before the square of the basilica resumed its normal quiet appearance. Tonight's failure to achieve an election was a great disappointment to Rome and it is doubtful whether such an immense crowd will again assemble, unless the conclave should continue until another Sunday.

The Day's Program.

There are thousands of rumors and unverified statements afloat as to what happened in the conclave today, but the only thing which seems to be reliably known is that the entire sacred college assisted at mass, which was conducted by Father Palmieri, their confessor, and that the Veni Creator was sung.

A great quantity of provisions was sent into the conclave today through the wicket gate, including 300 chickens, 500 newly laid eggs, many litres of milk, crates of fruit, etc. All the provisions were thoroughly examined before being allowed to pass through the wicket. Forty of the chickens were cut open to see that they did not contain contraband matter.

Cardinal Gotti, as far as known, is the only one of the cardinals who has not made some complaint about his cell. Being a monk he would consider demands for comfort against his ideas of austerity. To a member of the noble guard who wished him success, Cardinal Gotti merely replied, "Thank you, but I shall not be made pope."

It is reported that many of the cardinals protested today against a violation of the secrecy of the conclave. There is no intimation, however, as to the nature of the alleged violation.

BEAR SEEKS FULL SWAY FOR TERM OF SIX YEARS

Russia Said to Have Demanded Absolute Rule in Manchuria For That Term.

[Special Cable to The Gazette.]

BERLIN, Aug. 2.—It is reported here that the czar has sent a note to the Chinese government stating that under no circumstances would Russia allow foreigners to remain permanently in Manchuria, but that after six years, when order shall have been restored under Russian administration, the province would be opened commercially to all countries.

This indicates that Russia has absolutely no intention of evacuating Manchuria, even if she may pretend to do so, but that Russian annexation of the province would have become accomplished within six years. The government of the czar has become convinced that this program will meet with no serious protests, though everything is in readiness in case of a war with Japan. Three first-class battleships and a number of torpedo boats will leave Kronstadt for Port Arthur tomorrow.

STRIKERS SHOT DOWN.

Russian Troopers Had to Fire Upon Trans-Caucasian Railway Rioters.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 2.—There are reports of fresh collisions between the troops and strikers on the Trans-Caucasian railway near Tiflis last Thursday. The troops were ordered to fire upon the rioters, who were using revolvers, with the result that 21 workmen were killed.

The removal of a rail by the strikers wrecked a Trans-Caucasian train. Twelve carriages were smashed and two persons killed. It is asserted here that the Armenians are inciting the strikers.

ALTAR FOR THIS CHURCH GIVEN BY PITTSBURGH WOMAN

NEW CASTLE, PA., Aug. 2.—(Special.)—The handsome altar, the altar furnishings and the four beautiful memorial windows above the altar of the magnificent new $75,000 Trinity Episcopal church of this city have been presented by Mrs. Rebecca Berger of No. 4222 Fifth avenue, Pittsburgh, in memory of her husband, George Berger, one of the best known iron manufacturers of the Shenango valley. The vestments for the choir of 50 voices and the robes for the rector were presented by the Ladies' Guild of Trinity. The interior is exquisite in the harmony of detail, the Gothic design of the exterior being carried out in the huge wooden beams of the ceiling. The church is said by architects to be one of the most beautiful religious edifices in Western Pennsylvania.

CAPTURED A BURGLAR; ESCAPED FROM OFFICER

Carrick Resident Had Battle With Thief, Bound Him Hand and Foot and Turned Him Over to Constable.

Discovering a man in his house; having a battle with the burglar; subduing him, binding him hand and foot, watching over the prostrate form several hours, and then turning the thief over to an officer only to have him knock down the constable and escape from the arm of the law—that was the experience of Thomas Brown of Carrick postoffice, on the Brownsville road, the sad finale taking place on a Southern avenue car early yesterday morning, the capture having been consummated late Saturday night at Brown's residence.

Brown was awakened by his wife a little before midnight Sunday. She said she thought there was some one downstairs. Brown got up and went down to investigate. The burglar was hiding behind a table. When discovered by Brown he started to get out of the house. Brown and the burglar clinched and fought all over the room. Finally the burglar was overpowered and was bound hand and foot by Brown.

Brown aroused the neighbors, and the constable was notified. At 6 o'clock yesterday morning the constable and his prisoner started for the Allegheny county jail. A special car was run from Carrick township under the direction of Motorman Dickerson. Just as the car was on the outskirts of the township the burglar knocked down the officer and jumped from the car.

The car was stopped immediately. It was half a minute before the constable recovered from the blow he received, and he was unable to take up the chase. By that time the burglar had made some headway. He rushed into some woods near by and disappeared.

County Detective Robert G. Robinson was notified at his home, and he immediately detailed Detective George H. Waggoner to investigate the case. Detective Waggoner hunted that section of the county all day, but was unable to find the burglar.

The burglar gave his name as Charles Bermarding while he was in custody, but refused to say where he was from. Brown was not injured in his struggle with the burglar, but was dissapointed over the escape.

DEMOCRATIC FACTIONS FIGHT FOR CONTROL

Chairman Denny Seeks Re-Election, but Meets Strong Opposition.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

JOHNSTOWN, PA., Aug. 2.—There are indications that the Democratic county convention here has a large job on its hands tomorrow. Leaders are working in the hope of preventing a clash between two factions which are fighting for the county chairmanship. Chairman J. P. Denny seeks a re-election, but he has strong opposition.

A year ago, it is charged, the day before the election that he went to Pittsburgh and did not return until late in the afternoon of election day, leaving the work in the hands of his secretary, Thomas Osborn.

Ever since that time an anti-Denny faction has gathered force. The anti-Denny men want Osborn for chairman and are making a hard fight for him. Saturday's primaries in Johnstown appear to have resulted in the election of 25 Osborn delegates and 27 Denny supporters. Outside the city the forces, it is claimed, are about equally divided, and if the fight now on is carried into tomorrow's convention there will be trouble. The effort is now being made and will continue early tomorrow morning to force both Osborn and Denny out of the race.

If this result is not accomplished and either Denny or Osborn is elected the situation in the contest for sheriff will shift. As matters stand now Samuel Lenhart, Jr., seems to be in the lead. If Denny is defeated, however, Lenhart will go down with him, it is declared.

If Osborn is elected J. Hayden Bracken, Lenhart's most formidable opponent, will be defeated. But with the Osborn-Denny factional fight off its hands before it assembles the convention will be harmonious. The sentiment is growing tonight that if the Osborn-Denny forces cannot reach their own terms the convention should summarily dispose of both men by electing some one else chairman.

DEMAND THAT JEROME MAKE GOOD HIS CLAIMS

Central Federation Union Vigorously Denounces New York's District Attorney.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Conviction of any walking delegate whom District Attorney Jerome charges openly or covertly with being extortionists and blackmailers was demanded in resolutions adopted today by the Central Federated union. Many of the delegates declared the district attorney's office was being used to further the interests of the capitalist.

The resolution denounced statements that have come from the prosecutor's office as malicious and without foundation and officially designate him as a "moral coward" in not following up the prosecutions. They also call upon him to begin prosecutions of employers who have been guilty of giving bribes to business agents of labor unions.

A committee was recently appointed to make a secret investigation into labor affairs which have been before the public by reason of proceedings instituted by the district attorney. The committee reported to the meeting in the form of resolutions which were adopted.

ARRESTED BECAUSE HIS BICYCLE RAN OFF

Negro Had Lost Control of Wheel and It Knocked Down a Woman.

Because his bicycle ran away with him, knocking down a woman in its flight and badly injuring the rider, Frank Wright, a 16-year-old negro lad, was arrested last night on a charge of disorderly conduct.

Young Wright lives at Liberty avenue and Sixteenth street. He was returning last evening at 5 o'clock from a day's ride, and had started down the steep grade of Penn avenue, below Main street, when he lost control of the wheel. He managed to stay in the saddle until Thirty-fourth street was reached, where a number of people were standing in the street waiting for a car. All got out of the way except a woman, who was hit by the bicycle and knocked flat.

Wright was carried about 20 feet further and thrown against an iron pole, rendering him unconscious. He was taken to a doctor's office and a bad scalp wound dressed. When he recovered sufficiently to walk he made a search for his wheel. He found it in the possession of a policeman who placed him under arrest.

NIGHT FOR THE GERMANS.

Special Pyrotechnical Display in Their Honor—Elks in Charge of Pompeii.

From the moment the big Pompeiian band strikes up the Sousa overture, the interest in the "Last Days of Pompeii" begins, and it never lags for a single instant. Pomp and vanity appear to be chief traits of the idolatrous people and in the interpretation all their customs are portrayed to the life. The spectators are able to follow the lines of the story so beautifully written by Lord Lytton.

The people, first out for a merry holiday, then to their worship, during which occurs the great event that blotted from the earth two cities. The Egyptian, Arbaces, accused his fellow citizen of being a Christian because he will not worship the goddess Isis, and the populace echo the anathema, "Woe to the Christian!" but, alas! it is woe to the people who abjure the Christian faith, as, with a sweeping, crushing sound, Vesuvius vomits forth its spleen and buries city and people alike. The Christian, with those he loves, escapes, while his enemies are destroyed. The embers of the burning city fade away and the spectators are quickly transported from ancient to modern times and treated to a most exquisite feast of fireworks.

This evening the Germans will be complimented, and each evening the program will be changed to suit the special fraternity honored. The Elks have the local arrangements in charge, and tickets can be secured either at the grounds or at Mellor's music store.

The last named is a child 7 months old, and his mother was taken to the hospital to care for the baby.

WENT UP PIKES PEAK

Gov. Odell and Party Successfully Ascend Colorado's Mountain.

COLORADO SPRINGS, COL., Aug. 2.—(Special.)—Gov. Odell of New York and party, who arrived here yesterday afternoon, made the ascent of Pikes Peak early today, returning at 3 p. m. The day was clear and the ascent satisfactory. The party included Herbert and Bryant Odell, the governor's sons; Gen. F. V. Greene, New York's police superintendent; Fred B. Clark of New York, Editor and Mrs. Norman Mack of the Times, Senator Ellsworth, Dr. S. B. Ward and Dr. Keating of Albany and others.

"You have a wonderful state," the governor said, "and its resources are untold. Politically New York's favorite son is President Roosevelt. He will not be opposed. The national convention will dominate him. Along the Pacific coast we have read some talk about U. S. Grant for vice president. The vice president, however, will be selected by the convention."

CUPID'S NEW RECORD

Aged Brownsville Woman and a Man Married an Hour After Introduction.

SALT LAKE CITY, UTAH, Aug. 2.—(Special.)—Azariah Smith, 75 years of age, who came here from Bolleston, Oswego county, N. Y., and Mrs. Sevilla McGowen, 71 years of age, a native of Brownsville, Pa., proved yesterday that age cannot take away the possibilities of love at first sight, by being the principals in the most hasty marriage on record in the Mormon temple.

Saturday afternoon the aged couple met by chance in the tabernacle. They were introduced. In 20 minutes Mr. Smith had proposed. He argued the question with Mrs. McGowen for 20 minutes, and before the next 20 minutes had expired Smith had secured a marriage license and the ceremony was performed in the temple by President McAllister.

CONVICT'S BODY FOUND ON HILL

Wounded Outlaw Crawled to Creek, Where He Died After the Battle.

TWO MILITIAMEN ARE DEAD

Remains of Soldiers Are Also Picked Up Where They Had Fallen in Conflict With Escaped Prisoners from California Penitentiary.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

PLACERVILLE, CAL., Aug. 2.—The body of a dead convict has just been found on the hill where the fight occurred last night near the Grand Victor mine. One leg had been disabled and he crawled toward the water at the creek, where he died, and the brush fire burned over him.

The five convicts who engaged in a fatal fight with the pursuers at the Grand Victory mine last night have not been seen today and apparently have made a successful retreat. The dead bodies of Festus Rutherford and W. C. Jones, the two militiamen who were shot by the outlaws, were found this morning where they had fallen. Jones had served in the Philippines as a member of the First Tennessee and the Thirty-seventh United States volunteer infantry. Gill, the national guardsman who was shot through one lung, is expected to recover.

Another victim of the convict chase was Philip Springer, a resident of this district. He is deaf and failing to respond to an order to halt, was fatally shot by a picket early this morning.

A report received this evening states that four convicts, not believed to be the same who ambushed the officers last night, were discovered today near Lotus, in the Webber creek district, by a posse. A number of shots were exchanged but so far as known without result.

WILL REGULATE FOOD FOR BOARDING HOUSES

Milwaukee Official Thinks Hash Should Be Subject to an Ordinance.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 2.—An ordinance that will win for Secretary Frank B. Schuls of the health department lifelong gratitude, and make him the most popular man in the city, will soon be introduced in the common council.

It provides a standard for food that must be used in all boarding houses and hotels. Just how the secretary is going to regulate it he has not yet decided, but he has experts at work on the job.

Mr. Schuls, a few years ago, was a single man and he says he knows only too well what poor steaks and mysterious concoctions under the name hash, are used in the average boarding house. He knows how he suffered and now that Mayor Rose has made him secretary of the health department, and secretary of Milwaukee county Democracy, he proposes to get even with some of his former boarding house keepers and incidentally do a good turn for humanity in this city.

CARRIE NATION WAS MILD.

Spoke to 18,000 People at Lancaster; Says She's Done With Saloon Smashing.

LANCASTER, PA., Aug. 2.—Carrie Nation this morning and evening addressed fully 18,000 people at Rocky Springs, a suburban resort. Her remarks were along the usual line, denouncing the two great political parties as fostering the liquor traffic and favoring prohibition and woman suffrage.

She has given up saloon smashing, she said. Her coming, Mrs. Nation declared, was prophesied in the Bible, and she quoted Isaiah, xxvii, 2, to prove it. She did not create any disturbance during her stay in the city.

GERMANS OPPOSED TO MR. LOW'S CANDIDACY

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—"Herman Ridder has delivered an ultimatum to me," said United States Senator Platt tonight. "He told me a few days ago that the Germans under no consideration would stand for the renomination of Mayor Low. He did not suggest any other candidate, and said that almost any one would be acceptable to him but the present mayor."

FIGHT EXPECTED IN COMMITTEE

Sand Filtration Advocates Believe Alum Water Men Will Smuggle in Minority Report

WAITING ON E. M. BIGELOW

Reported That Director Will Return Today—Sterrett Says He Will Consult Bigelow Before Calling Meeting—Armstrong Will be Back Next Week.

The special filtration committee is expected to send in two reports to councils, a majority report and a minority report. Councilman J. C. Wasson said yesterday that he believed that Messrs. W. E. Sankey, Charles Stewart and Joseph G. Armstrong would sign a majority report in favor of sand filtration and that J. P. Sterrett and Chris Beckert, Jr., would sign a minority report in favor of alum water or mechanical filtration. This would revive another controversy in councils and cause more delay.

Select Councilman W. E. Sankey said yesterday that he would insist upon the committee adhering strictly to the resolution under which the committe was appointed. Mr. Sankey is an uncompromising sand filtration advocate and is determined that when the committee has obtained estimates on the present plans, which provide for sand filtration, it shall make its report to councils without taking up the alum water scheme. It is admitted, however, that the two minority members can bring in a report into councils if they see fit.

Mr. Sankey stated that Mr. Armstrong, who had gone on a trip to Georgian bay with a South Side club, would be back in less than two weeks. He will be here before the committee is ready to adopt a report. During Mr. Armstrong's absence, however, the committee will be a tie, and there may be a deadlock in the election of a chairman, as stated yesterday in The Gazette.

Councilman Sterrett, who has the authority to call the first meeting of the committee, stated yesterday that he would not send out a call until he had consulted Director E. M. Bigelow. There is some doubt as to when Director Bigelow will return. It was stated yesterday that he would be back this morning, while other friends of the director stated that he might not return for some time, as he had sent his pay roll, including the voucher for the technical school site, back by mail.

The resolution adopted by councils provides that the director shall have the estimates ready for the first regular meeting of councils in September, which will be on the 14th of the month. If the director delays his return the estimates will not be forthcoming at the time expected.

THREE SUNDAY RAIDS IN OAKLAND DISTRICT

Two Women Proprietors of Alleged Speakeasies Arrested. Much Liquor Found.

Inspector Milton E. Bailey and his flying squadron in Oakland had a very successful Sabbath yesterday, raiding alleged speakeasies. They visited three houses, which Inspector Bailey says have been doing a land-office business in the sale of intoxicating refreshments. The squadron was led by Inspector Bailey, Lieutenant Edward McPoland and Officer James Noon.

The first place visited was the abode of Mrs. Kate Considine, in Ethel street. The inspector had a warrant for Mrs. Considine, charging her with illegal liquor selling. She was taken from her house at 1 o'clock in the morning to the Oakland police station. The place of Mrs. Kate Boyle, in Jones alley, near Griffith street, was raided at 11 o'clock, and Mrs. Boyle and four men arrested. The inspector reported that he found a large quantity of liquor in the house.

The squadron next stopped at John Lalley's house, in Irvin street, at noon, and there arrested the proprietor and one male visitor. The inspector said that he also found more liquor there than needed for ordinary family use.

OVER 100 PRISONERS.

Sunday Morning Hearing at Central Station Was Well Attended.

Of the 105 prisoners at the Central station yesterday morning, 46 were discharged, their offenses not rising to the dignity of crimes.

Marshall Ruff was fined $25 and costs at Central station on a charge of keeping a gambling house at No. 14 Scott street. Of the 29 visitors found in the place six were discharged and the the others paid $5 and costs each.

Ella Dunbar and Blanche Smith were each fined $25 and costs on a charge of "eeping" a disorderly house at No. 11 Bates alley. Mary Reynolds, a white girl, found there, was assessed the same nount, and two men $5 and costs each.

Anna Whiteart of Webster avenue was ned $5 and costs for keeping a disorly house and seven men whom she said re boarders, paid $1 and costs each.

Albert Gordon of Philadelphia was fined $25 and costs for stealing dirty linen out of a laundry wagon in Water street.

M. Squalli, an Italian, who was flourishing a gun in Webster avenue, paid $50 and costs, and Raffor Josti, also an Italian, was fined $25 and costs for carrying a dirk knife.

George Clyde was alleged to have robbed a man of $7 under the Baltimore & Ohio train shed and was required to give $5 of it, all he had left, to the city.

FIGHT BEGINS IN EARNEST.

Both Workmen and Contractors Are Firm—Operations to Be Tied Up.

The fight between the labor organizations and the building contractors will commence in earnest this morning. The contractors succeeded in notifying all the men Saturday not to report for work Monday, and in turn the members of the council say they will not return to work, if permitted to do so, until the hoisting engineers' differences are amicably adjusted.

The fight between the two organizations promises to be a severe one. Both sides say they are in the right and will not budge from the stand taken. The men say they are on strike for union principles. They are ready to submit the dispute to a board of arbitration, the board to consist of disinterested persons. The Builders Exchange league members say they will not consider any plan of settlement until the men return to work on all jobs of the A. & S. Wilson Company.

The Building Trades council will ask for the support of the national organizations of such trades as are affiliated with the council. This means that work being done outside this district by any members of the league will be struck. It also means that the strikers will get financial support from the national bodies.

RINGING THE BELL FOUND LOST CHILD

Peter Seifer, 4 Years Old, Wandered from Home and Old Resident Showed the Way to Find Him.

Peter Seifer, four years old, is envied by all the boys and girls in upper Allegheny, for Peter was lost last night, and for the first time in years the bell-ringing method of finding a lost child was set in motion. Hundreds of children and grown persons followed the bell-ringer through the streets.

Peter wandered away from his home, No. 1001 Chestnut street, about 6 p. m. The police were notified, but nobody took the lost child to the station house, so at 8 o'clock an old resident of the neighborhood got out his "lost child" bell, which had not sounded for 30 years, gave it to a big boy and ordered him to go out and ring in the lost one. The boy jumped at the chance and presently started down the street, banging the bell and shouting "lost child" at the top of his voice.

The refrain was taken up by old and young, and in a short time a crowd was following the bell, and men, women and children joined the procession as it went by their houses, crying "Lost child" and "Peter Seifer's lost." Street after street was traversed and finally Washington avenue was reached.

Standing in front of the door of the Home for the Friendless stood a little boy in knickerbockers, with his fist in his eye, crying bitterly that he was lost. He saw the crowd approaching, heard the bell ringing and the exciting sight dried his tears in a jiffy. He joined the crowd and he heard the cry of "Lost child."

"Who's lost?" the little boy asked, and the crowd shouted its regular cry in unison: "Peter Seifer's lost."

"Why, that's me! Hooray!" said Peter, for it was he. "Wonder what me mudder'd say if she saw me now?"

The bell-ringer heard the child, and dropping the bell dived into the crowd and seized Peter, who struggled desperately when he realized that he was found and that he could not have the fun of following the crowd. The big boy picked up the little one and started back, followed by the cheering crowd, the only exception being the six-year-old who had picked up the bell. He clanged along, shouting "Peter Seifer's lost"—for he did not know that Pete was found—and the noise he made drowned the silence behind him. He reached the East park, and was suddenly surrounded by the children playing there. Looking around he saw himself in a strange neighborhood and surrounded by unfamiliar faces.

He began to cry. "What's the matter, little boy?" said a park policeman, pushing his way through the crowd, "and what's your name?"

"My name's Hansie Tulpenheim, boo-hoo, and I guess I'm lost, boo-hoo," was the reply.

But Hansie was old enough to know his address, which was also on Chestnut street, and so the policeman passed the boy on to the officer on the adjoining beat, and Hansie went from one policeman to another until he reached home. There stood his father and his mother and the old resident. The latter, tickled to death at the success of his scheme, was trying to borrow another bell to send it out after Mr. Tulpenheim's lost son.

Pearl Geber of South Twelfth street got lost, too, yesterday, but she was found in the new-fangled way. A policeman saw her on Carson street, seven blocks from home. He sent her to the police station and her mother claimed her.

CONGREGATION TAKES PART IN UNIQUE CONSECRATION SERVICE

The members, officers and pastor of the Reformed Church of the Ascension took part in the consecration of the ground for the new church at Termon avenue, near California avenue, Allegheny, yesterday. The officers of the church turned up the first shovelfuls of earth in the construction of the new building. This is customary with the erection of public buildings, but is something out of the ordinary for a church organization.

After yesterday morning's service the entire congregation went to the new church site. In addition there were a number of persons from other churches who desired to witness the odd ceremony. The first shovelful was dug by S. J. Myers, one of the elders and a member of the building committee. He was followed in turn by each of the church officers, and last came the young pastor, the Rev. A. C. Dieffenbach.

Mr. Dieffenbach read the consecration formula composed by himself, as follows:

"O Lord, our heavenly Father, Creator of the universe, God of the soil and the soul, we, Thy humble children, with a deep sense of reverence for all Thy wonderful works, do consecrate to the worship of Thee, King of Kings and Lord of lords, and to the service of our fellowmen, whom we love and for whom we live, this, our portion of Thy grand estate, in the name of Jesus Christ, blessed forevermore. Amen."

Work on the new church will be begun this morning, and seven months will be required for completion.

LINGERED A DAY AND THEN DIED

Despondent Man Shot Himself Saturday Morning and Expired Last Night.

FARM HAND WAS FOUND DEAD

It Was at First Thought He Had Been Murdered, But the Body Had Lain for Several Days—Second Identification at Morgue.

Charles Shopfer, 45 years old, of Undercliff, Shaler township, who shot himself early Saturday morning at his home, died from his wounds last night at 10:45 o'clock. Yesterday afternoon he said that he had shot himself on account of financial and domestic troubles. Shopfer inflicted two wounds in the left side of his chest. Both entered just above the heart, and in spite of the physicians' efforts to save his life he died while they were attending him.

Shopfer had been drinking Friday night. At midnight he went to his room and his wife remained down stairs. About an hour later Mrs. Shopfer and her sister-in-law heard the report of a revolver in Shopfer's room. As they were rushing upstairs another shot was heard. Upon reaching Shopfer's room they found the door locked. Dr. J. M. Holtz was summoned, and when he broke into the room Shopfer was lying on the floor in an unconscious condition. When he regained his senses he said he had been shot by someone. Later he admitted having inflicted the wounds himself.

Shopfer was worried on accoun of financial troubles and over the fact that his sister was soon to be married to a man whom he did not like.

Neal Devenny, a farmhand employed by F. Stoddard, in Moon township, about three miles from Coraopolis, was found dead in a shed on the farm yesterday morning by two boys who were gathering berries. His head was cut and he was lying in a pool of blood. From the fact that residents of the vicinity heard considerable shooting during the night by some drunken men it was thought he might have been shot and killed.

Deputy Coroner F. J. Rehan found, however, that the man had been dead for several days, probably since Wednesday, on which day he was last seen. Devenny's home is in Wellsburg, W. Va., where he owns 300 acres of land. He was about 45 years old and single. Word was yesterday sent to his mother, Mrs. Margaret Devenny, at her home in Wellsburg announcing his death.

The body of William Sweet of DuBois was identified at the morgue yesterday, after having already been identified as William Decker of Sheraden. He was known by the latter name at Sheraden, where he worked in the Panhandle yards for four weeks. He fell in front of several moving cars on Saturday and was run over and instantly killed.

The coroner was notified last night of the death by drowing of Owen Graham, a 14-year-old boy of Alpsville. It was said that he lost his life while bathing in the Youghiogheny river at 3 o'clock.

COMET IS DISAPPEARING.

It Is Not Being Watched from the Allegheny Observatory.

Borelli's comet, which has been visible for several weeks, lying to the left of the bowl of the big dipper, is beginning to grow dim and in a few days will have disappeared altogether. It is receding from the earth at the rate of 1,100 miles a minute.

Prof. F. L. O. Wadsworth of the Allegheny observatory has not been observing the comet, because the instruments are not available, having been taken down from the old observatory and not set up in the new one.

Weather—Fair — Monday, August 3, 1903.

Betwixt and Between Seasons.

The first two weeks of August constitute a period of dullness—one expects to have glimpses of Autumn fashions while yet strongly attached to Summer idols; ready and yet not ready to take up the new; two of the hottest months ahead to run counter to buying for cool weather.

Yet there are thousands of people who enjoy anticipating the future, and it is for just such people that we have, this morning, some Unusual Early Autumn Offerings.

Suggestions from several departments for early Fall wear; suggestions of articles of decoration for the home—collections of new goods bought direct from manufacturers who were willing to start Fall buying a-going by deducting a real neat percentage from regular prices.

Thus our news this morning is of new goods bought for liberal concessions and retailed under the same advantages.

Special for Economical Housekeepers.

Three Initials, $1.20 for one gross.
Four initials, $1.70 for one gross.
Five initials, $2 for one gross.
Full name, $2 for one gross.
Full name, $1.25 for one-half gross.

Note—By cabling we can supply orders in four weeks' time, for which an extra charge of 25c is made.

A Chance to Get Awnings Cheap

We have left from the season a great number of strips of awning cloth. If anyone would like to have awnings made for next Summer we will do the work now for

HALF OF REGULAR PRICES.

But it must be understood that the awnings are to be delivered when they are finished—in other words we will not carry them over to the next season.

For people whose window and porch awnings are about done this offer should appeal with strong economical force.

The materials are the best—and we use none but the best galvanized fixtures.

More Underpriced Silks.

A silk manufacturer finding himself in need of some ready money closed out to us two of his best numbers in black silks—really at a sacrifice price.

At 88c a yard today a $1.10 grade of guaranteed black taffeta. It is a full yard wide.

At 88c a yard today a $1.10 grade of black Peau de Soie. Very silky, very dressy. It is 27 inches wide.

At 68c a yard today 85c and $1 grades of Fancy Silks. For the shirtwaist suit no silk more commendable.

At 68c a yard a table containing rich Foulards—$1 and $1.25 grades.

Regarding the underpriced black silks, we desire to say that they are the best all-around silks we know of, usable for the making of any and all kinds of Summer garments.

Girls' Garments for Autumn.

A glimpse at the new jackets, some new skirts—for less prices than you will buy them when the season fully sets in.

Girls' Jackets of navy blue serge, full sleeves with embroidered emblems—6 to 12-year sizes—$6.50.

Young Ladies' separate Skirts of mixed cheviot—all seams lapped—lengths 35 to 40 inches—$7.50.

First Showing of New Fall Hats for Women.

Women will be pleased to note that we are now showing, in liberal variety, Felt Hats for early Autumn wear, also hats of tulle and hats of chiffon.

The various make-ups are quite an interesting study in Fall fashions for hats.

$2.50 each up to $10.

Flannelettes, 12½c a yard.

And the way the weather has been keeping to a point of coolness, it seems to us that flannelettes are just as desirable as any line of goods we know of.

250 yards of Twill Flannelettes, very desirable for underskirts and nightgowns, ready today at the prices stated—12½c a yard although a regular 18c grade.

Nottingham Curtains—Less Prices.

In August it is quite natural for the housewife to consider Autumn and Winter curtains. Usually new curtains have to be bought for regular prices. Here is an exception to the rule. Today we place on sale 478 pairs of Nottingham Curtains—3½ yards long—pure white—clean fresh goods—striking designs—at these reductions:

$2 Nottingham Curtains for $1.35 a pair.
$2.50 and $2.75 Nottingham Curtains for $1.75 a pair.

Admiral Cotton and his officers and men are being entertained as cordially by Portugal as they had been by England and Germany. They are hobnobbing with royalty on such terms of intimacy as might not have been deemed possible a few years ago. They are acquitting themselves creditably, too, extending courtesies without demeaning themselves. Uncle Sam is getting to be really appreciated on the other side of the Atlantic, where people are learning that he is a gentleman, in addition to being a pushful young giant.

A mortgage filed in Berks county indicates the probability that the Gould system of railroads may be aiming at a connection between Baltimore and New York, as well as an entrance into the anthracite coal fields. This suggests also the probability that the Goulds and Rockefellers may have acquired control of the Reading railroad system during the recent turmoil in Wall street, together with as friendly relations with the Vanderbilt interests as existed between the Vanderbilt and Pennsylvania systems prior to the wholesale chopping of Western Union poles. The whirligig of high finance changes bed fellows as rapidly as the vicissitudes of politics.

There is much discussion in the scientific press and even in the daily newspapers about the use of radium and the Roentgen rays in the cure of cancer. Undoubtedly they have virtue, as Finssen's ultra-violet rays have in the cure of lupus, and his red rays in the modification of smallpox. But these new secrets wrung from nature need to be handled with extreme care. The bombardment of electrons, supposably similar to the primary sources of universal energy, is fraught with mysterious dangers. The case of Thomas A. Edison, the electrical wizard, and an assistant come at the moment to impress the moral. There is no rose without its thorn, and the curative agents of bodily ills are not without the power to harm.

Russia's reported note to China does not accord with the general diplomatic understanding. There are but two conclusions, either that Russia is playing a double game—one story to China and another to the powers—or the reports emanating from Peking are falsified for a purpose. We cannot see what advantage Russia can secure from making false promises to the United States, Japan and Great Britain. It either intends to open the door to Manchuria or it does not. If it does not it is taking a very foolish course in making positive promises to the contrary, thereby laying the foundation for insistence that it shall fulfill its pledges. Nations are subject to the same general rules as individuals and they suffer discredit from deliberate lying.

The Sunday observance crusade in Wilkinsburg and other points in Allegheny county has reached the comic opera stage. We can conceive of nothing much more ridiculous than the spectacle of well-known citizens lying in wait for the hour of midnight to file informations against other reputable citizens, charging them with such heinous crimes as singing in church choirs, or dispensing soda water to the thirsty. It almost passes sober understanding. But if appears the contagion is spreading, so the employes in the traction parks are under the necessity of wearing disguises to avoid prosecutions for managing park amusements and the like. It is an odd thing that respectable people cannot reach some agreement in this enlightened age concerning the proper observance of the day of rest, but that they must clutter the offices of justices of the peace with informations against each other.

It is charged that certain scientists attached to the bureau of ethnology and in the employ of the United States government have been inciting the Indians to perform the sun dance. The charge is made by an agent of another branch of the government service, who has expended his energies for years to discourage the sun dance, ghost dance and other cruel demonstrations of the savages. Of course, the scientists want to know all about savage orgies and to have pictures of them for the information of future generations and for the study of characteristics of past generations. But those who have jurisdiction over the agencies and reservations are interested in the welfare of the present generation, as well as of future generations. The Indian "dance" orgies are degrading and tend to inflame savage passions. In this situation the human science of control has rights superior to the abstract science of ethnology and they should be secured.

Many of the office buildings in this city have their own water supply from artesian wells, drilled in their basements. The latest and one of the most successful of these has just been completed for the Westinghouse building. It is fortunate for the city that private enterprise thus does what the city has so long neglected to do, namely, get supplies of pure water. But for this fact and the fact that many persons buy distilled water, or boil what they drink, the typhoid rate of the city would be higher than it is. Pure water for everybody is the greatest issue before the people today, and they will not drop the demand until the program adopted by the select and common councils for sand filtration is carried out to full realization. They will insist upon quick work.

Gorman and 1904.

Senator Gorman on his return from Europe modestly diclaims any proprietary interest in the boom that has been inflated in his interest during his absence in Europe. He is not a candidate and has not thought of being a candidate, and what is more significant, he has not even thought of any one else as a candidate, though he tries to minimize the importance of this by giving as his reason that it is quite a time until the convention meets in 1904. Senator Gorman is credited with being an able reader of political signs and portents, and an apt reader of the throbbings of the popular political pulse. He has been absent from the country for some time, but he knew conditions before he went away, and is aware that there have been no occurrences since to alter the foundations or complexion of things. Therefore, such declaration as he makes concerning his presidential prospects and the prospects of others in a bunch is such a declaration as might have been expected from him. He knew the case was hopeless when he went away and knows it hasn't improved. Just on the eve of his arrival from abroad Representative Bankhead of Alabama said, in an interview with The Gazette's correspondent at Washington, D. C.:

Our choice for president is Senator Gorman. He satisfies all alike, thus consolidating the various factions of the party. It is the belief in the south that he can be elected if nominated. He is about the only man who is likely to carry New York state against President Roosevelt, and he has behind him the business strength of the country as well as the southern and western voters. He can, I am certain, have the Alabama delegation.

This may be an important political straw, or it may not. It indicates that the prospects of Judge Parker of New York were not bettered by his recent visit south, and that he may be regarded as eliminated from the situation. Doubtless, Senator Gorman accepts the expression as a compliment, but he is too cool-headed and calculating to be carried off his feet by it. He is no tyro in politics and knows that the qualities that make him strong as a state leader and as a leader in the senate do not necessarily make him a strong candidate, and the hopelessness of the case, as he sees it for any Democratic candidate, appears in his evident sparring for time when the subject of candidates is broached. Mr. Gorman is not in the field, and it does not now appear probable that he will be, and we interpret his declaration that he has not thought of any Democrat in connection with the presidential nomination to be a confession that he is unable to pick a Democrat who has a chance of winning even the Democratic nomination.

Imperial Pittsburgh.

Let us contemplate the Dominion of Canada and then turn to Pittsburgh. Attention has been much attracted toward Canada in the past few years, partly because of the opening up of the Canadian northwest, and partly because of the industrial development at Sydney, in Nova Scotia, and at other points in the dominion, largely due to the Canadian policy of liberal subsidies to new enterprises. The cheap lands of the northwestern territories of Canada, with their present and prospective transportation facilities, have proven a powerful magnet to enterprising colonists. In the year ending with June, 1903, there were more than 31,000 homestead entries in that region. But of more direct interest to Pittsburgh is the growth of one of the Westinghouse enterprises at Hamilton, Ont., and the announcement that the United States Steel Corporation will add a Canadian plant to its many other enterprises. These two facts, even more than the undoubted agricultural development, but considered with it, may make it appear to Pittsburgh that Canada is growing apace to be in time no mean rival to the United States in all fields. It is incontestable that the Dominion is steadily developing under the fostering care of statesmen whose statecraft is of the sort that takes account of the machinery of production and distribution as the proper agencies of empire building. Their aids to immigration and to mining and industry, their present scheme of railroad building and their foreign agencies for the marketing of Canadian products attest the business character of their administration. All this, with the magnificent domain that is tributary to their developing energies, breeds in the contemplation of it a sense of power and completeness in the present that remains to be attained in the future, and the dominion of today seems more the rival that it may become than the rival that it is. The truth about Canada is that its population is about equal to the population of Pennsylvania, inhabiting an area about equal to the area of the United States. The fact of Canadian business as exhibited in the reports of the Canadian clearing houses for last week is that the business of the small district immediately tributary to the Pittsburgh clearing house exceeds it. Quebec, St. John, Halifax, Montreal, Toronto, Ottawa, Hamilton and London in the east, Winnipeg in the middle distance and Victoria and Vancouver in the far west are the centers of Canadian trade and commerce, domestic and foreign. Their bank clearings, as reported to Bradstreet for the week ending July 30, footed up a total of $45,182,917. The bank clearings of Pittsburgh, as reported to Bradstreet for the same period, were $48,210,128. Thus the business of the Pittsburgh clearing house for the week ending July 30, 1903, exceeded the business of all the Canadian clearing houses from the Atlantic ocean to the Pacific seaboard by $3,027,211. It is when we are able to make comparisons such as this that the real greatness of our magnificent city becomes apparent. The injustice that is done to Pittsburgh in the population table of the decennial census is rectified in the unsentimental tables of statistics of business. Pittsburgh looms, when subjected to this crucial test, an empire in achievement if not in expanse. Shut in by its hills, narrowed in its valleys, this city, at the forks of the Ohio, is imperial in its dominance of industry. The crowded background fails to furnish the perspective against which it may be seen at a first glance, but when the records are consulted, written in the unmistakable characters that mean so much to the men of affairs, a whole Dominion of Canada takes place behind and the mightiness of the forces of progress that are here at work become apparent and understandable. The people of Pittsburgh hardly comprehend what their city has come to be and what its future is, but the tables of comparative statistics glow with the story, as if written in letters of fire.

Commendable Restriction.

Pending the enactment of more stringent laws for the restriction of immigration, the authorities have adopted some new rules that will give more force to existing laws. In particular, the medical examinations have been made more severe, with the result that many persons are now being excluded who would have been passed a few months ago.

This is a wise adjustment of the discretionary powers at Ellis island. The United States has no use for the people of Europe who are not physically and mentally sound, and it would be no kindness to such people to admit them to the land of fierce competition. It is true that some percentage of diseased persons might find in this country the good health that is better than riches, but the vast majority of those suffering from organic complaints would still be doomed to misery and many would inevitably become public charges. All such should be excluded. They will be better off at their old homes, among friends, or, if they have no friends, they are more properly wards of their native lands than of America.

The greatest difficulty in dealing with immigration is the exclusion of persons morally diseased. Effort is made to exclude all who have criminal records, and that effort is partly successful. But it is difficult to determine the existence of latent criminal instincts. It is a lamentable fact that a considerable percentage of immigrants develop violent natures after admission to this country. In the countries whence they come they have been kept in fear of the gendarmerie. Here the legal authority is less in evidence. The rural constabulary is not distinguished by official uniform. Even the county peace officers go about in plain clothes. The effect is to imbue the ignorant alien with the belief that freedom in America is without the restraint of authority. Better wages affords the opportunity to indulge the taste for intoxicants, and the latent criminal impulse springs forth full armed.

Another cause of trouble is the fact that thousands of men come without their families, to first prepare the home. They are free from domestic restraints at the same time they discover the absence of the uniformed gendarmerie. These men are able to give a good account of themselves at the immigrant station without being untruthful. They do not even suspect their own criminal possibilities. These, however, develop rapidly. There is no apparent way in which such undesirable immigrants may be excluded, but it is gratifying that a practical effort is being made to exclude the physical degenerates, as that will tend to relieve the pressure in one direction, at least.

No Oil Famine.

In reply to the periodical cry of a petroleum famine, the New York Herald has secured an article from Dr. David T. Day of the United States geological survey. Here in the oil producing regions Dr. Day is not rated as a very high authority upon the subject. He has good statistical knowledge, of course, but no familiarity with the business such as would appeal to those engaged in the industry. In the main Dr. Day's conclusions are sound. There will be no immediate exhaustion of petroleum resources; when fields now producing begin to fail others will be found; when high-grade Pennsylvania oil cannot be had, inferior oils will be made to serve. With these statements there can be no quarrel, but there is nothing in them that any ordinary oil producer might not have said.

There are two points in Dr. Day's review that are not commonplace. One is that Alaska is promising oil territory; the other, that the Standard Oil Company's processes of refining are old-fashioned and by rule-of-thumb. Alaska has been investigated by the experts whose opinions are worth having, and they think well of it as an untested area. The conditions are favorable. But every oil man knows there is but one real test—the drill. Alaska will be reached in time by the wildcatter, and he will discover how much oil is there and of what quality. No one else can. As to methods of refining it may be said the processes used by the Standard Oil Company for Pennsylvania crude result in as high as 75 per cent illuminant and 99 per cent marketable products. The by-products number about 300. The main process of distillation by heat is certainly old. Some of the by-products are very new. A saving of 99 per cent of the total product might be improved upon, but it is rather in advance of other industrial processes on a large scale.

Dr. David T. Day has told the public nothing new. He may have allayed any undue excitement concerning the immediate exhaustion of petroleum resources. There has been no such excitement in the producing region. He admits there is justification for slowly increasing prices, and all of these opinions were set forth by The Gazette a couple of weeks ago. It needs no expert other than a practical man who has worked in the fields to know all and more than Dr. Day has told.

Our esteemed contemporary, William T. Stead, is losing his beauty sleep trying to devise a way for the president of the United States and the king of England to meet without any apparent sacrifice of the dignity of either. Suppose you let them meet by chance, William? That will at least prevent further worry.

At this late day we are informed that an Englishman successfully navigated the air across dear old London while Santos-Dumont was yet struggling with ill luck. He seems, however, to have lacked a proper sort of press agent, which is more than half the battle!

That decision of Judge Lochren in favor of the Northern Securities Company will look nice in a large gilt frame on the parlor wall, just where the evening sun can kiss it good-by. And it doesn't appear just now that it will ever serve any more useful purpose.

Postmaster General Payne can't say when the postoffice inquiry will be ended, but everybody knows it won't be ended while there is any uncertainty as to whether the bottom has been reached and everything on the bottom brought to the surface.

While one eastern terminal of the Wabash will be at Baltimore there is reliable information that the management has no prejudice against also letting New York and other seaports in on the ground floor of a good thing.

With regard to local fusion, Democratic National Committeeman Guffey shows surface indications of a disposition to let nature take its course. But then you can't always tell what the colonel has up his sleeve.

There are 15 scientists with the Canadian government's Hudson bay exploring expedition which will be gone one year, and only 25 other persons to do the work and keep the peace.

Senator Gorman, with his usual diplomacy, abstained from giving his presidential boom a black eye in declaring on his return from Europe that he is not a candidate.

The political question of the moment seems to be, "Whose orders will 'Jim' Clark, James A. Clark, J. A. Clark, Commissioner Clark and City Chairman Clark take?"

Everybody in the United States knows that the postoffice department is a good thing, but only a few believed it to be an easy mark, and they know better now.

The publicity given to reports that King Peter of Servia is head over heels in debt is probably for the purpose of proving that he is every inch a king.

Pittsburgh's drinking water produces hundreds of cases of typhoid fever while you wait—that is, while you wait for filtration.

All combinations against the right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness look alike from Sagamore hill.

Only two ballots have been taken by the conclave, and advices from Rome show that they ended in smoke.

It really looks as if the Citizens fusion forces must satisfy their appetites with snow water in November.

Senator Hanna's return to Cleveland has started the political warm air.

IN THE EYE OF FAME.

Maj. W. W. Hammer, the soldier who pulled old glory from the flagstaff at Fort Sumter, has taken up his residence in Los Angeles, Cal.

Jacob S. Johnson of Fairhaven, Mass., is the only surviving member of Perry's famous expedition to Japan, which opened the ports of that country to foreigners.

Dr. W. P. Horton, a dentist of Cleveland, O., has made a complete collection of forceps representing the "toothpullers" from 400 years ago up to the present time.

Dr. Carl Peters, who is called the Cecil Rhodes of Germany, is now in London, preparing to set forth on another journey to East Africa, in the neighborhood of the Zambesi.

In accordance with the wish of the late Senator Ingalls his widow has placed at his grave one of the huge red bowlders with which the Kansas prairies are strewn. The stone weighs five tons and bears a bronze tablet.

Where the Poor Are Injured.

Inexcusable carelessness and indifference in the neighborhood of a powder magazine near Lowell, Mass., resulted in death to a score of people and the maiming of many others, says the Toledo Times-Bee. The explosion was caused by a blunder which mistook nitre acid for water. Its fatalities were largely due to the fact that a number of dwellings of the very poor had been permitted to be established in the immediate vicinity of the powder magazine of the cartridge factory. The whole incident shows that selfish disregard of the poor which exposes them to pestilence and disease and the horrors of fire in illy constructed tenements.

Raw Tomato and Nuts a New Cure.

Peter Johnson of No. 1612 Washington avenue south, Minneapolis, has had nothing to eat but a handful of nuts and a raw tomato a day for nine months. He is a living example of the so-called fasting fad for foolish people. Johnson had partial paralysis of the left side a year ago, he was a victim of Bright's disease, weighed 240 pounds, suffered from asthma, and was informed by his medical advisers that he could not live more than a month or two. Now Johnson weighs 170 pounds, is harder than nails and free from aches or pains. Johnson fasted nearly 40 days, when he began his "cure."

Where Canada's Trade Should Go.

The natural route for the trade of the Canadian northwest, now merely in its infancy, would be to the great lakes or by numerous feeders to the great grain carrying trunk railways of the United States. All this traffic, so large in future possibilities, might have been assured to us without fear of rivalry by the encouragement of commercial relations with the dominion through the abolition of the customs boundary between the two countries.

Worse Than Cats.

A gossiping "old hen" can create more disturbance in a neighborhood than a regiment of cats in a midnight serenade.—Oil City Blizzard.

"REMEMBRANCES."

(Written for The Gazette.)

Overhearing a conversation between a little girl and her father last evening, I happened to catch enough to form the idea that she was longing for her dead mother, and in response to my mind, I wrote these few verses:

Oh, how I long, once more,
My mother's face to see,
The one I loved so dearly,
Oh, where, where can she be?

I miss her in the daytime,
I long for her at night.
For all I cannot see her,
She appears to be in sight.

The footsteps that I long to hear,
The voice that called my name,
If I could only hear them now
I know they'd be the same.

But I shall wait, and live in hopes,
To see her, some bright day,
Walking down that golden path
Where the angels are at play.

—H. E. R.

The Quiet Observer.

By ERASMUS WILSON.

The summer girl.

Have you ever seen one? There are pictures of them galore, but who has ever seen one in real life?

Maybe she is only a figment of the artist's mind done in pigment.

Anyway, who or what is the summer girl?

Don't get smart and crack off that old squib that some are girls and some are something else.

There are girls and girls; summer, winter and all the time. Some are girls whom God seems to have made when not rushed or bothered, and some seem to have been turned out in a hurry, with the expectation that they would be finished up later. In many instances it would seem that these expectations had not been fulfilled.

The material may have been there, and the stamp genuine, but the finishers, through negligence, or lack of skill, may have made a botch of what promised to be a fine piece of work.

In most instances the finishers are to blame for faulty girls, and boys, too.

* * * * *

Who is responsible for the summer girl, this annual freak that bobs up every summer? Is the papers?

Girls are peculiar creatures, as you may know—may have good reasons for knowing. In the beginning they are as God makes them, but later on as man molds them. They take kindly to men, for that is their nature, but if left alone in their own sweet ways and native innocence, they would be all right.

But men are passing along all the time, and by flirting and coaxing lead the dear creatures away—away off from their innocent playgrounds, away from rag babies and doll houses, promising them real houses and pleasures, and everything that delights the hearts of real women.

If all the men would keep all their promises there would be fewer summer girls and more hardy annuals, as a florist might say; also perennials that would make many homes sweet and cheerful and altogether lovely the year round, year in and year out.

Man may go up and down the earth with his head in the air, pointing to woman as the cause of his downfall, but pot has no right to call kettle black, as they used to say. Even if she was the innocent cause of some sad trouble once, it isn't very nice in him to be forever reminding her of it. And then to be everlastingly trying to get even with her is real mean. Don't you think?

* * * * *

Since women are what men cause them to be, what sort of men are they who shape up the freaks we see pictured in illustrated papers and labeled summer girls?

The fact that the pictured summer girl has the appearance of being a swell would suggest that she is the product of the swell man. You have seen him, of course, for he is a reality—the real thing—the thing, perhaps, described by Pope in his famous essay on man:

"Worth makes the man, and want of it the fellow;
The rest is all but leather and prunello."

The modern swell is very much puffed up, as you may readily see. He protrudes his chest, stiffens his spine, poises his head carefully on his well-collared neck, carries his cane below the middle, wears clothes cut after the extreme of fashion, and walks in imitation of an athlete.

By his dress, gait and manner he is constantly reminding the public that he thinks he is "some pumpkins."

The lightness of his head, and the absence of well defined characteristics allow him to conform himself to every passing craze or fad. He wore a lizard on his lapel when lizards were the style. An eye-glass comes handy to him, and he can roll his trousers up without deranging his swell make-up in the least.

* * * * *

He used to be a dandy, and when he would out-do the average of his set he was called a jim-dandy.

You can never guess what a swell is going to do. He doesn't know himself.

Swells are not always rich young men. In fact the majority of them are chappies engaged in some light, clean employment in which no great expenditure of either intellectual or physical energy is required.

The swell who is such because of his wealth, social position and esthetic taste, is usually taken as a model by the other. He is more assertive, and travels on his swell proportions.

The self-made swell is much more painstaking than the other, whose father and mother were swells, but there is not much fundamental difference between the two. No class on earth can approach the swell class in self-satisfaction. Great statesmen may sometimes doubt whether they might not have done better if they had remained in private life, great writers often get tired of their calling and clergymen are racked with doubts. But the swell, alone among men, never conceives that anyone who is anything else is not a mistake, or that he is not the most consummate success of civilization.

* * * * *

Flattery is too often regarded as a false estimate of the individual to whom it is addressed. This is not true flattery. On the contrary this is usually the effort of designing persons to mislead or deceive. This sort of extravagant flattery poisons the minds of those who are weak enough to listen to it, and leads them into fantastic notions respecting their ability or merits. But flattery discreetly used may be employed to stimulate and encourage those who are too modest and retiring for their own good.

There are times when a little well-chosen and well-directed flattery is the very thing to use. Even if it is not all truth—that is, if it does not contain all the truth—it answers an excellent purpose.

The brutal truth-teller, who never indulges in flattery, may comfort himself by the thought that he has deceived no one, but he has done far greater damage in other ways if by his truth-telling he has crushed the ambition of some modest aspirant for fame. But flattery, even though well intended, should be sparingly used lest it should give rise to false ideas and false hopes. Although the struggling student should be encouraged by judicious flattery to new efforts, he should not be so far deceived as to his merits and abilities as to lead him to overestimate of his strength. Flattery that has such an effect, if well intended, has failed of its purpose, and, after all is said, the purpose and effect of our actions, no matter what names we give them, measure their value for good or evil.

When we flatter to encourage and effect our purpose we have done well; when we overshoot the mark only our intention remains good. Flattery for any other purpose is, of course, to be condemned as one form of deceit.

* * * * *

The swell is a most consummate flatterer. He is, also, fond of it himself. You can puff him up with it until his buttons are ready to fly, and his eyes pouch out like the goggles of a frog.

It is this class of persons who have brought flattery into disrepute, for, really, flattery is not the thing it is usually supposed to be. A recent writer pertinently says that the idea that flattery is necessarily false is derived from its secondary meaning. It apparently comes from a word meaning to soothe, to stroke gently, to smooth, and this is all that the honest flatterer tries to do.

There is no harm, but rather virtue, in pleasing or gratifying one's friend by praise; it is only when flattery is carried to excess for purposes of cajolement or deceit that it is open to objection.

Fawning hypocrites have given flattery a bad name and one that is not always deserved. They flatter to deceive, and deceive for a bad purpose. It is quite different when mother or teacher encourages the child to study by praise, even when it is undue praise. Here the purpose is true; it is to soothe, to smooth over.

The Way of Nations.

Nations are like men, and it has never been the rule of human experience that kinsfolk preferred business failure together rather than success with other people. Statesmen must guard their own nation's welfare. If it can be served by alliances with powers of similar institutions, well and good, but if not, then international politics must still make queer bedfellows.—Cleveland Leader.

Labor and the Militia.

It is a strange condition of affairs when labor unions make war on the national guard of a state, with a view to dissolving it. All labor unions do not join in that despicable business, but it is an injury to honest labor that any such action should be taken under the assumption that it is approved by their organizations.—Philadelphia Press.

Talked of in New York

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Bachelor hotels, for transient patrons are absolutely non-existent in this city. This seems a strange statement, when it is remembered that New York prides itself on the number of its bachelor apartments, and on the beauty and convenience of these apartments. But, in every large city except Manhattan it is a common thing to find hotels where only men are accommodated. A Pittsburgher made this statement to-me today. He said that he had been looking for a distinctively bachelor hotel, but had been obliged to go to one where women were admitted. Said he: "I am not a woman-hater, but I do not like women in my hotel any more than I do in my club. Wherever women are there is more or less fuss. I say this without any ill-feeling toward the sex, but I insist that it is true. So it has been found that a hotel which is kept exclusively for men always has good patronage of that kind. I am speaking of other cities. Why such an establishment would not pay in New York I do not know, but I have been told by hotelkeepers here that the experiment has always failed in Manhattan, although it has been tried many times." Perhaps New Yorkers do not object to the society of women so much as do the men in other cities. At all events, it seems as if the Pittsburgher's statement of the experiment having repeatedly failed here is well founded.

Prefer the "Silent Highway."

There were busy scenes around the pier of the Albany boats today. A great many people bound for Saratoga prefer a swift and smooth voyage up the Hudson on one of the big steamers to riding on a train. From Albany to Saratoga is not such a far cry, and one is not so tired after a night on a steamer as if that same night had been spent in a sleeping car. A large number of persons left New York for Saratoga this evening, determined to be early on the spot for the race meeting.

Blue Devils in a Tunnel.

Vagrant electricity frightened a few carloads of people in the Brighton beach tunnel yesterday. A broken trolley wire had set the blue flames dancing like demons, and the motorman was afraid to go any farther, until the lineman came and fixed things up. People who go to Brighton and Coney are used to all kinds of weird experiences, from drunken roughs to professional pickpockets, but these blue flames were something new, and the scare was in proportion.

A Pittsburgh Hit for New York.

The first Pittsburgh music publishing house to have a branch in New York will open tomorrow evening, on "Music Publishers' Row," in West Twenty-eighth street. The Walrus Company of Smithfield street, Pittsburgh, well known as the publishers of "The Pittsburgh Gazette March," has taken a floor in the Clipper building, and will conduct business in the metropolis, as well as in Pittsburgh hereafter. J. A. Wallace, the manager, has been here for nearly a week, looking after the preliminaries, and he considers the outlook very bright. He said to me yesterday afternoon that he considered it time Pittsburgh produced a big musical hit. Every other important city in the country, with some not so important, have brought forth songs and instrumental pieces which have been played everywhere, and he thinks it is time for Pittsburgh to join the procession. "The Pittsburgh Gazette March" has been played by orchestras in New York and many copies of the piece have been sold to private customers. One of the objects of the Walrus Company in coming to the metropolis is to push "The Pittsburgh Gazette March" in the New York music market.

"Who Is Duss?"

John S. Duss is doing a great business in Madison Square garden. At the beginning of the summer the weather was cold and wet, and the vast garden was not so inviting as it is at present. Duss' music was known, however, and the attendance increased from day to day. One of the music publications here has an article headed, "Who Is Duss?" It says that the critical public of New York was taken by surprise when Duss demanded its attention. At first it tried to ignore him; then it ridiculed him. It laughed at his personal mannerisms, his business methods, his appearance, his every characteristic, except his great ability." The article closes with the remark that "Today the only Duss is acknowledged as a genius and a success."

Didn't Mind the Howls.

Those unlucky customs officials of the port of New York got another rebuke yesterday. They held up the baggage of the American rifle team, which has just come here from England, where it won the championship. Col. Leslie C. Bruce of the old guard, who was at the head of the team, had asked the secretary of war to give orders that the team should not be interfered with by the customs officers. But the message probably went astray, for there were not special orders sent to the baggage examiners, and they went about their work of investigating the team's belongings with the prosaic activity they display always. They even unwrapped the Palma trophy, and poked at that sacred emblem of American prowess as if it had been a piece of old junk. The members of the team were all indignant, several of them to the howling point. But you can't disturb a New York customs officer, and in spite of protests the examination of baggage went on to the bitter end, while the Palma trophy seemed to be viewed with suspicion until it was out of sight.

Order in Court.

Manhattan magistrates have one source of complaint ever in their daily duties as judges of police court cases. This is the noise of traffic and the intolerable atmosphere of several of the police courts. Jefferson market, often known as the "Tenderloin court," is near a station of the Sixth avenue "L," and the racket of the trains is so bad that it is impossible for proceedings to be conducted peacefully when the windows are open. Let the windows be closed, and you can cut the stench with an ax. The magistrates have long been in the habit of complaining about the poor accommodation in court rooms, and from what Magistrate Flammer said today it looks as if there might be some beneficial changes at Jefferson market, if nowhere else. To remodel the court room, so that its windows would look out upon quiet Tenth street, instead of roaring Sixth avenue, would cost $28,000.

Giving Away Money a Sin.

You must not scatter your loose coin along the sidewalks or roadways of Manhattan. If you do the rude police will catch you and walk you to the police station. A middle-aged man, well dressed, who evidently had dined, was throwing nickels, dimes and quarters to a yelling mob of boys as he walked along that highly respectable thoroughfare, One Hundred and Sixteenth street, in the shadow of Columbia university, at midnight. He was locked up "for safety," as the police put it. He had $110 in bills in his pocket, besides a quantity of loose change. He was very indignant, and wanted much to know under what section of the penal code he was distrained of his liberty. He found out in court later, when he was fined for disorderly conduct.

The Island Dispute.

The British claim to the little islands in the Palawan passage north of Borneo, which were recently taken in possession by the naval representatives of the United States, rests upon a double contention. It is asserted that the sultan of Sulu conceded northern Borneo and the adjacent islands to the British North Borneo Company in 1878. This contention may be met by the answer that the sultan of Sulu was not an independent sovereign in 1878, but had then long been, and soon after acknowledged himself to be, under the suzerainty of Spain.

If, on the other hand, the islands were derelict, as claimed in the second British contention, they were subject to seizure by any power that might find it worth while to take them. The islands in question, with the exception of two lying within 16 and 25 miles, respectively, of Sandakan harbor, Borneo, seem to come within the limits of the Spanish cessions of 1800 and 1901 to the United States. It is a pretty quarrel as it stands and is likely to become further complicated by strategic and commercial considerations.—Philadelphia Record.

Great Britain has no just cause to dispute the right of the United States to the possession of the Kagayan islands over which Admiral Evans raised the American flag several weeks ago. The complaint which the British government has made is not official and is not of sufficient importance to create even a diplomatic incident.

By a treaty dated March 7, 1885, Great Britain and Germany acknowledged that these islands belonged to Spain. * * * So by a most solemn declaration England has renounced all sovereignty over the islands lying between the western extremity of Mindanao on the one side, and the "continent" of Borneo and the island of Palawan on the other side—in which location lie the islands that Admiral Evans has placed under American authority. Through an oversight, the Cagayan group was not included in the original treaty of peace between Spain and the United States, but this mistake was corrected by a subsequent treaty signed at Washington November 17, 1900, whereby for the consideration of $100,000 Spain conveyed to us the absolute title which we should have had in the first place.—Kansas City Journal.

The territory administered by the British North Borneo Company, of which the islands lie, is held under concessions from the sultan of Sulu. The territories not ceded by the sultan to the North Borneo Company became appendages of the United States upon the ratification of the treaty of Paris. The geographical position of the islands in dispute leaves no shadow of doubt as to their once having formed a part of the territory of the sultan of Sulu. The question thus becomes a very simple one: Did the sultan in his cession to the North Borneo Company include the islands in question? The document will show. If he did they belong to the company; if he did not they belong to us.

With every desire to be polite and obliging to our neighbors in the Philippine seas, and especially to that flourishing monopoly, the North Borneo Company, it will take something more than the airy statement of the chairman of the board of directors to cause a disavowal of the act of the naval commander who hoisted the flag on the islands.—New York Press.

The United States has precisely the same title, no better and no worse, to the seven little islands over which the stars and stripes have just been flung as it had to the two islands of Sibutu and Kagayan, for which under the supplementary treaty of 1900 it paid the additional amount of $100,000. Thus, when we say that we own the seven islands we lay ourselves open to the retort that we evidently did not think that we owned the two or we would not have paid more money for them, and that our title in one case is identical with our title in the other.

The answer is, that it is good in each case, and that the $100,000 was paid inconsiderately; but, anyhow, the point is one which Great Britain would have no right to raise. If it is to recover at all, that country must do so upon the strength of its own title, and not upon the alleged weakness of the title of the United States; and no valid British title has been shown. The islands are either ours or they belong to Sulu, and Spain is not saying a word. Of course, the dispute will be amicably settled.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

We do not believe that there is in this country the slightest interest in the wretched little islands over which the misunderstanding has arisen. Nor do we believe that the American people are hungry for more conquests. As for strategy, if we had considered that, at least from the point of view of home defense, we should never for a moment have thought of taking the Philippines. And more territory in that region will mean just so much more property to defend. We have quite enough of that sort of property now.—Indianapolis News.

Great Britain will object to the seizure of these islands, small and apparently unimportant as they are, because they give us control of the Sulu sea and command the passage from British Borneo ports to Singapore, Hong Kong and Australia. There is every probability of a controversy with many features in common with that respecting the Alaska boundary. The facts at present obtainable seem to show that the United States can substantiate its claim, the one weakness of our position being in the fact that we deemed it necessary to acquire Sibutu and Kagayan by a treaty and a payment additional to that of Paris.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

England and America.

It is impossible to read the speeches which have been delivered, whether by British or American officers, at the steadily accumulating series of dinners and luncheons without being struck by the unforced note of intimate personal cordiality which runs through them. In this country, at all events, it is indispensable that this feeling has of late years gathered new strength, thanks to the irresistible influence of close and continuous intercourse, and to the temperate wisdom of statesmen and diplomatists on both sides of the Atlantic.—London Times.

Publicity and Divorce.

Justice Brewer is right in his contention that divorce suits should always be tried with full publicity. Secrecy undoubtedly promotes divorce where publicity discourages it. Many of the mismated will endure their burden rather than have the facts spread before the world. It requires a very high degree of social cultivation, as at Newport, to secure perfect indifference to the opinion of one's fellow men.—Providence Journal.

An Angry Editor.

After the new concert walks were finished some human polecat deliberately defaced them by walking and jumping on them while still impressionable. It does not seem credible that there are such mean, contemptible

MAN IS DROWNED AT THE SEASHORE

A PITTSBURGHER RESCUED

Was Found Hanging to the Paling at the End of Auditorium Pier in an Exhausted Condition—Other News of Interest.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU, Young's Ocean Pier, ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 2.

August Dudley, 30 years old, 708 South Nineteenth street, Philadelphia, was drowned while bathing this morning. He, with two companions, arrived in the morning and they immediately went to the bench and donned bathing suits. All were good swimmers. Dudley dared his companions to follow him out. They refused and he had not gone far before he gave a cry and sank from view. A lifeguard responded but was too late to aid the man. The body was hauled ashore 20 minutes later. Death was due to a weak heart, is the opinion of physicians who examined Dudley.

Rescued a Pittsburgher.

Life guards who went on duty this morning found John McKane of Pittsburgh clinging to the piling near the end of the Auditorium pier. After he was rescued it was found that he had been clinging to the rough piling for over an hour, after becoming exhausted while swimming.

Allegheny Woman's Mistake.

There was an amusing incident at one of the bath houses this morning, the truth of which is vouched for by several persons from Pittsburgh. A man and his wife from Allegheny went to the bath house for bathing suits. They had never seen the ocean before and as usual they were assigned to a booth. The husband told the wife to go ahead and put on her robe while he went to deposit their valuables in the office. There was a long line of people waiting and it took him some time. When he went to the dressing booth he found that his wife, not knowing the difference, had put on his bathing suit and had gone into the surf. He could not go into the breakers with a skirt on and he had to forego his bath in order to hunt his wife. He found her before she had attracted much attention, and brought her back.

May Yet Have the Jetty.

The report that the syndicate which had been formed to jetty the inlet had given up its intention because of the interference of the government with the property plans, is denied by the announcement that Capt. C. Sanford of United States marine corps was coming here August 17 to hold a public meeting to hear arguments in favor or against the projected jetty. The jetty is the one planned by Prof. Haupt, and it is to be located on Middle Ground bar in the inlet. Walter B. Dick wrote to Capt. Sanford, regarding the plans of the syndicate and invited an inspection of the plans. The response was the calling for the meeting. It is the evident intention of the government to hear both sides of the question before it will give its approval to a jetty. The jetty is designed to turn the tidal waters so that they will form a beach and extend the bank of the inlet and made ground for the people who are interested in property in the city and will be benefited through beach accretions. Captain Sanford wrote to the mayor asking that a room be assigned to the use of the government on the date named for a public hearing.

Indian Headed Parade.

The delegates to the American Federation of Catholic societies, after attending a mass at St. Nicholas church this morning, marched to the convention hall, in New York avenue, headed by a Sioux Indian delegate. The Pittsburghers who attended the convention are F. W. Immekus, president of the Pittsburgh federation, and chairman of national executive committee; G. McGuire, secretary of the Pennsylvania Young Men's institute, and Larry McDonald.

Scared the Mayor Off.

This came very near being a closed Sunday in Atlantic City. The mayor yesterday issued his order that all amusements on the boardwalk should be closed. He included in the prohibitory order all of the shows on the pier that were not sacred. It was threatened that if any of the concerts sang any of the songs of the day on the program, of music that could not be found in a hymn book the performers would be arrested and hauled before the recorder. The amusement men threatened that if the order was carried out they would obtain evidence against all the places where the sideboards were kept open, and that if they were molested they would retaliate. The lesser amusements on the boardwalk did close, but the sacred concerts were given as usual on the piers. The only difference was that the drop curtains were not used.

HORSES ARE STABLED FAR ABOVE THE EARTH

Teams Will Remain Prisoners on Incline Plane Cars For Two Weeks—Break is Worse Than First Supposed.

For two weeks or more four horses will live in midair. These are teams made prisoners on the Penn incline cars by the breaking of the machinery Saturday morning. Investigation yesterday showed that the break in the shaft wheel which caused the accident was far more serious than at first supposed, and it will be at least two weeks before the broken shaft can be repaired.

Saturday night several of the incline employes walked down the cleated pathway on the plane with food and bedding for the horses, and, unhitching them, made the two teams comfortable for the night. The horses are stabled under the iron wagon shed, and despite their airy position are as comfortable as if they were in their own stable.

Engineer Bartley Coffee, whose presence of mind in turning on the air valve when the shaft broke, and bringing the cars to a stop, probably prevented a fatal accident, worked all yesterday in an effort to patch up the broken shaft sufficiently to bring the cars to the street level, but without success. He bolted the broken sections of the shaft together, and started the machinery operating the cable, but the bolts snapped before the cars had moved an inch. Several other attempts to move the cars were made, but all proved unsuccessful. The shaft is broken in two near the drum, and in such a position that repairing it is out of the question, and it will have to be replaced with a new one. As the shaft is of special design, a new casting will have to be molded, which will take at least two weeks.

In the meantime the horses on the cars will have to remain where they are unless some plan is originated to swing them to the ground by means of block and tackle. The position of the cars on the plane makes this extremely difficult. One of the cars is directly over the Pennsylvania railroad yards, at Seventeenth street, while the other is situated about 20 feet blow Grant boulevard, on what is probably the steepest part of the hillside.

Almost a Lynching in Albany.

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 2.—(Special.)—An attempt was made here to lynch Bert Hazelock, a negro, this afternoon, but the intended victim was protected by an officer with a drawn revolver. The affair developed from a street brawl between two negroes, and the extent of the negro's injuries is an arm shattered with a paving stone. John Scharf, white, tried to separate them, whereupon he was attacked by Hazelock and slashed with a razor.

GAMES STILL ARE RUNNING

Saratoga Not as "Tight" as Officials Would Make Believe.

EVERYTHING ON THE QUIET

One of the Big Clubs Operates Under The Guise of a Restaurant and Before Week Ends Those Who Want It Can Find Lots of Gambling.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 2.—Although open gambling is no longer tolerated in Saratoga, the gamblers and the few who really want the excitement of play can find it. It is now certain that there will be plenty of games running in a quiet way before the end of the present week.

In one of the big clubs, where a restaurant is being conducted for the purpose of giving the impression that the proprietors have no thought of gambling this year, games were conducted Saturday night. Of course everything was done in a quiet manner, and only those who were specially invited were admitted. And no one was invited who had not money to lose.

When the game was opened the announcement was made that the limit would be $250, but that those who decided to play higher could make special arrangements. There was no way today of learning what the result of the play was, but it is understood that there were sensational plays. The police have practically announced that no attempt will be made to interfere with the quiet games of this sort.

Three of the less important gambling houses also opened their doors Saturday night. One of the houses was closely guarded and trouble was avoided in that way. Another was run wide open, and not a thing was done to close it. The third house was run by Jerry Minnehan, who has been thought to have a pull with the police hardly second to that enjoyed by Richard Canfield.

Yet a raid was made, and, for the first time in the history of modern Saratoga, prisoners were made and gambling implements were seized.

AT THE TARENTUM CAMP.

Large Crowd Attended the First Sunday Services.

The first Sunday of the Tarentum camp meeting was observed yesterday and for it an unusually extensive program was carried out. Many visitors were present. Preparations are completed for continuing the camp meeting all next week. Yesterday morning at 9 o'clock the general class meeting was held; at 10:30 the Rev. Dr. Henry Thompson spoke. The Rev. Dr. R. I. McKee of Pittsburgh opened services in the afternoon at 2:30, with an interesting address. The Epworth league held its meeting at 6:30 in the evening, and it was a general convention of the Epworth leagues of Allegheny county, led by those from Creighton and Tarentum. When they had concluded, near 7:30, the closing sermon was delivered by the Rev. Dr. T. J. Leak, of Pittsburgh.

GAMES TODAY.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 2.—A great crowd gathered at League park this afternoon to witness the scheduled double-header between the Pirates and Cardinals, but were greatly disappointed when rain stopped the second game after one and one-half innings' play, with the score standing 1 to 1. The first game had gone against the locals by the big score of 13 to 4, and the fans were howling to Donovan and his men for revenge.

Moreover, the Cardinals seemed to have a chance in the second game, for in the one inning he pitched Sam Leever, the Goshen schoolmaster, was pounded over the lot for three cracking singles, which netted the locals one run and tied the score made by Hans Wagner, who smote the first ball pitched to him for a homer under the bulletin board, the fiercest drive of all the long hits that have been seen at League park this season.

The first game was an exhibition of slugging. Seventeen hits for 30 bases were scored by the Pirates and there is a well founded suspicion on the part of the thousands who saw them perform, that they could have made it 34 hits for 60 bases, had they been inclined to rub it in. Five doubles and four triples in one game is a good record, even for the heavy hitting Pirates.

In the field they played a dashing game, Bransfield's error being the only mar upon the record. Hans Wagner was the star of the diamond. He covered an almost unbelieveable wide territory, performed sensational stunts without stint and established a fielding record by accepting 13 difficult chances without an error.

Pitcher Dunleavy was batted out of the box in two innings, the Pirates scoring three doubles, one single, one triple and four runs off his delivery in that short space of time. Rhoades, who succeeded him, was even less effective. Kennedy went in to pitch for the visitors, but fared but one inning. When he came to bat in the first he drove a triple to left, but when he reached third he dropped on the bag temporarily overcome by the heat and the run. He was taken out of the game as a result, as he has been feeling poorly for several days and needs a short rest.

In the seventh inning 11 men faced Pitcher Rhoades and accumulated a bunch of seven runs. It was Sawyer's first hit of the trip, singled and scored on Wagner's triple. Bransfield walked, Leach doubled, scoring Wagner and Bransfield, Ritchey tripled, scoring Leach, Kruger singled, scoring Ritchey. Smith sacrificed. Vell reached first with a fine which sent Kruger scampering across the plate. Sebring came up for the second time and lined one straight at Smoot, which he dropped, Vell scoring. Hans Wagner mercifully ended the agony by flying to Hackett.

The Pirates scored their four runs off Pitcher Dunleavy in the second inning by another mighty swatfest. Leach led off with a double and went to third on Ritchey's sacrifice. Leach walked, Smith sacrificed, Dunleavy to Hackett, and Leach's run was scored. Kennedy tripled, scoring Kruger. Beaumont doubled and sent Kennedy home on a dog trot. Sebring's double sent Beaumont across and the Pirates had enough for awhile.

A two-base hit by Wagner and a single by Bransfield gave the Pirates another run in the fifth, and they forced one more man across in the ninth, "just for luck," and to make it a clean baker's dozen. Kruger led off with a single, was forced at second by Hoffman, batting for Smith, Vell's single sent Hoffman to third from whence he scored on Beaumont's out to Hackett. Score:

FRANK KRAMER BEATEN.

Champion Sprinter Outridden on the Belleville Track.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—(Special.)—"Willie" Fenn took the one-third of a mile open professional event at Belleville cycle track in Newark this afternoon before 4,000 spectators. Many people did not go to the track on account of the injunction obtained against the racing. Walter Bardgett made a successful attempt at a runaway and captured the 10-mile handicap by the length of the home stretch. Lawson defeating Kramer for second by a length and a half.

McFarland was shut out by Krebs in his heat of the open professional event, which was once around the track. Fenn, Lawson, Kramer, Krebs, Bardgett and John Bedell started in the final. Fenn went to the front on the back stretch and started his sprint before half the distance was covered. Lawson and Kramer pursued the leader, but he was too much at home on the dirt surface and won by a length. Kramer tried hard to beat out Lawson for second, but the Swede led by half a wheel at the tape. Floyd Krebs was fourth.

DAYTON WANTS RISHER'S PLAYERS

HOMESTEAD'S NEW PITCHER

An effort was made Saturday night by Manager "Hiney" Youngman of the Dayton Central league club, to sign Tom Cosgrave, second baseman, and Hughey Tate, left fielder, on the Homestead L. A. C. nine, for his team. Neither player, however, would entertain the idea of leaving Homestead at this stage of the season, especially when Manager Risher has a hard eastern trip ahead, which begins today. These players would strengthen Dayton considerably, as they are hitting and fielding well.

Risher takes his team east this morning, playing the first game at Altoona today, and will also be there Tuesday and Wednesday. Risher last night closed with Everett, Pa., which is the home of Tate, for Thursday. Tate, however, may not be able to play this week. He is threatened with a case of typhoid fever and his physician has advised him to rest for a few days. He will, however, go on the trip.

The shift in positions made necessary by his laying off, will be arranged satisfactorily by Risher. Charlie McCloskey will play left and Fisher, who came home from the Pacific league recently, will be put in right. As soon as Tate is well enough to continue playing McCloskey will be sent back to right.

Three pitchers will be taken east, Martin is a good right-hander and has been in the Western league. Manager Risher has made efforts to learn the whereabouts of Bill Bowman, the ex-West Virginia pitcher, for he could like to have him for the rest of the season. Bowman, who was with Homestead last year, began this season with the Philadelphia Nationals but was let out and signed with St. Joseph in the Western league. He came home a few weeks ago ill.

The Harrisburg team, which plays Homestead at that place next Saturday, played its 81st game of this season, Saturday, beating Altoona, 4 to 3. Of these contests 23 were lost. Harvey Hollis, the local pitcher, was on the rubber for Altoona and opposed to him was Matthews, the crack twirler of the Senators. Each allowed 10 hits, but the crowd from the Capitol City finished strong and won.

The Pittsburgh Field club and the Reliance Life team will meet again next Saturday on the Field club grounds. Each has a victory over the other, Reliance winning the first, 4 to 0, but losing the second, 8 to 6. Both teams are strong, having in their lines-up strong college players. Wallace Cosgrove of Princeton is playing the outfield for Reliance as are also Dick and Jack Cosgrove, Ex-Capt. Davis of Princeton is also on the team. Llewellyn of West Virginia is playing in the infield.

AGAINST ATLANTIC CITY.

Executive Committee Awards Players in Dispute to Norristown.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 2.—A meeting of the executive committee of the National Association of Independent Baseball clubs was held at the Bingham house tonight at the request of the Atlantic City club. The meeting was called for the purpose of reopening the cases of Summers, Smith and Mullen, now playing with the Seashore team while under suspension by the National association.

After again going over the cases and according the accused men, with the exception of Mullen, who was not present, a hearing, the suspensions were sustained and the Atlantic City club notified.

Manager Matlack and Pierson of the Atlantic City team agreed to release Mullen and Summers and bought the release of Smith from Manager Walker of the Norristown club. The Atlantic City team also agreed to pay all the expenses for the settlement.

MAYS EDMUNDSON IS GOOD MAN TO CAPTAIN HOMESTEAD TEAM

Mays Edmundson.

When Mays Edmundson was appointed field captain of the Homestead L. A. C. team Saturday by Manager Risher, the move was sanctioned by nine-tenths of the faithful in the steel town. To captain a big baseball team is something not new to him. His four years of playing on the Westminster college team, of which he was captain the last two years of his college life, will stand him in good stead.

Since leaving college he has played on some of the best independent teams in the state, and last season went from Homestead to Hartford, in the Connecticut State league. He was well up at the end of the season in the third basemen's rank, and was signed by Toledo. His refusal to consent to play Sunday ball cost him his job, and instead of agreeing to Toledo's demands he came back to Homestead.

With all respect due to the fast guardians of the bag who have played in Homestead uniforms, he is judged to be about the best that ever performed on the team. He is a hard worker, knows the game well and possesses ability, these attributes making him a most valuable man to the team and worthy of the position.

CHESBRO AND TANNEHILL WILL STAY WITH GRIFFITH

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Manager Clarke Griffith of the New York American league club is very much disturbed by the rumors which continually crop up in various quarters tending to cause friction among members of his team. The latest, that Tannehill and Chesbro were dissatisfied and wanted to quit the Highlanders, caused "Griff" to say a few things.

"Stories to the effect that I have offered to trade Tannehill," said the Greater New Yorks' manager, "are lies and are put out by somebody with malicious intentions. As far as Caesbro is concerned, I consider him worth half a dozen ordinary pitchers. His poor success of late has been due entirely to the fact that he works entirely too hard. His heart is in his work to the extent that recent reverses have hurt his effectiveness.

"He will settle down all right and mow them down as he always did.

"The Greatest Pitcher," he says, as they stand today, with all the men in good condition, can hold their own with any other team in the business. At least, that is the opinion of their manager."

BOOKIES ARE MAKING WATER BOY FAVORITE

Gunfire, However, May Have Call in Betting for Saratoga Handicap Today.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 2.—While the sky is overcast tonight, there is every probability that the rain will hold off until after the running of the Saratoga handicap tomorrow. This will mean a fast track and the withdrawal of Africander, who was left in the entries in the hope of muddy going. All the other horses carded will probably start with the exception of South Trimble, who, it is rumored tonight, will be withdrawn and Runnell substituted.

The unimpressive workout of Water Boy yesterday started a story today that he would be withdrawn, but Joiner, who trains the horse, positively states tonight that he will certainly go to the post.

The bookmakers are making Water Boy the favorite this evening, but the impression made by Gunfire on the horsemen Saturday may result in his going to the front as first choice. Goldsmith, the other spring to the Whitney boy's credit, the distance in 2:08, which is next to the fastest trial shown, but there is much doubt expressed as to his ability to go the distance. Disadvantage is the dark horse of the race. Only arriving two days ago, he has been kept under cover and no fast work asked of him. In Cincinnati there is much speculation as to his condition.

Coughlanway worked a mile in 1:42½ Saturday, but there are few who give him a chance tonight. Shields is telling his friends that Hunter Rynie is worth a bet and that he will almost certainly be in the money. He has shown enough form to keep his price well down, but the horse that usually regarded as most dangerous is Hermis, whose mile and a quarter in 2:07 is the fastest trial for the race.

The following odds, given by a prominent member of the Metropolitan association, are probably correct:

Horse.	Probable Jockey.	Odds.
Water Boy	Odom	3 to 1
Gunfire	Burns	3 to 1
Goldsmith	Redfern	3 to 1
Hermis	Rice	4 to 1
Hemo	Michaels	8 to 1
Africander	Vanderbilt	10 to 1
Hunteraine	Martin	20 to 1
Caughnawaga	Jenkins	30 to 1
Disadvantage	Cochran	30 to 1
South Trimble	O'Neil	50 to 1
Africander	Bullman	Blenk.

The Beaver Athletic club defeated the Greenwood club yesterday in the second game of the series at Island park, 7 to 6. MEETINGS WILL BEGIN TOMORROW

Convention of the C. T. A. U. to Open, All Arrangements Being About Completed.

OLDEST MEMBER OF ORDER

Alexander McBride of Lawrenceville Was One of the Charter Members—At One Time He Was a Heavy Drinker, But Has Kept His Pledge.

Arrangements are about completed for the 33d national convention of the Catholic Total Abstinence union, which opens in this city tomorrow evening. The general executive committee, having in charge the arrangements, met yesterday at the union's headquarters, No. 833 Fourth avenue, and completed all plans for the event.

John M. Tighe, chairman of the committee on hotels, reported that all matters looking to the care of the visitors and delegates had been completed, and that the parlors of the Hotel Henry had been secured for the reception to be held Tuesday evening.

The report of the committee in charge of the public meeting, to be held in the Duquesne theater, Wednesday evening, showed that they had secured all the boxes in the theater for the use of the state and city officials, ministers and temperance leaders, and that many ministers of other denominations would be in attendance.

A committee composed of James Fitzmaurice, William McLaughlin, John Finn, Miss Margaret O'Brien and Mrs. Mary Bevers, was appointed to draft resolutions on the death of Pope Leo XIII. and have them acted on in convention.

One of the most notable personages who will attend the convention will be Alexander McBride of No. 4610 Carlton street, Lawrenceville, who is the oldest living member of the society who took part in the organization of the first union in this city. Mr. McBride, who is a well preserved man and one who has a wonderful memory, in telling his experience as a temperance advocate, said:

History of Alexander McBride.

I was born in Ireland, and at the age of 20 years left home to come to America. When I left home my father told me to reform or never let him see me again. At that time I was a drunkard. When getting to America I worked in New York for about nine months and then joined the army. After serving three years, my time being up, I left the army and continued my wild course, until finally, in March of 1842, I signed the pledge for life, and have kept it since.

After again joining the army and serving two terms, I came to Pittsburgh. My mother-in-law, Catherine Cassidy, had after heard that my pledge was taken to quit drinking she would tell me all about Father Mathew and the work he was doing. She sent me one day a pledge and medal given by Father Mathew to those who signed his pledge. This medal is still in my possession after the lapse of April 10, 1838, being the day of Father Mathew's first great temperance movement.

Father Mathew commenced his labors in Cork, Ireland, and it was due to the influence and friendship of a Quaker named Martin that he took up the temperance work. I kept track of Father Mathew's travels, and when he came to Dublin I left for that city. I was most anxious to see him. He came on Sunday, and on Tuesday, July 23, I went to see him at the old St. Paul's cathedral, and had him administer the pledge to me. He also blessed my medal, and I signed his pledge, the number of which is 6,088,262. Thomas Scully, editor of the Catholic Observer, signed the pledge before me that forenoon.

Characteristics of Father Mathew.

Father Mathew was very lively, and I remember he joked when I told him I would never return to Ireland again. In 1873 we organized the first union in Pittsburgh, in the old cathedral school house. Bishop Michael O'Connor, Very Rev. Edward McManus, vicar general, and the Revs. Thomas Reynolds and John Tuigg were present at the cathedral then, and Father James Cosgrove organized the union.

The words of Father Mathew's pledge are: "I promise with divine assistance to abstain from all intoxicating liquors and to prevent as much as possible by advice and example intemperance in others."

I have attended all national conventions, and my badge always attracts attention, as there is only one more in existence in the United States.

I have been a member of St. Mary's church since it was organized, in 1853, and am the oldest living member both of it and the Total Abstinence union.

ORDERS TO ISRAEL HOLD GOOD TODAY

God Urges Us to March Canaanward, Says the Rev. T. Griffiths.

"Marching Orders" was the topic of a sermon preached by the Rev. T. Griffiths, in the Forty-sixth Street Baptist church last night. He took his text from Deuteronomy ii., 3, "Ye have compassed this mountain long enough; turn you northward." During the course of his sermon Mr. Griffiths said:

The contents of the book of Deuteronomy were given to Israel about a month before the death of Moses, or in the fortieth year and eleventh month of Israel's wanderings in the wilderness. Hence we find the laws previously given recapitulated and obedience to them enforced by continued and pathetic appeals to the people's long experience of the mercies and judgments of God during these 40 years.

In the opening chapters Moses reviews their journeyings. "In the third month, when the children of Israel were gone forth out of the land of Egypt, the same day came they into the wilderness of Sinai." There they encamped before the mount for about one year, when they were commanded to move toward Canaan. Having reached the southern extremity, spies were sent out to view the land.

The majority of those on their return discouraged the people from entering and taking possession. Upon which the anger of the Lord was enkindled and they compelled to retrace their steps back into the wilderness, there to wander for 38 years more. At the expiration of that period they were again issued to break camp and march to Canaan. The orders are now obeyed.

The orders to Israel in the wilderness to march and possess the land are God's orders today to us. These people were more than through unbelief. They might have been in Canaan inheriting its rest and enjoying its milk and honey instead they were in a dry and thirsty land compassing day after day the barren slopes of Mount Seir.

DEDICATORY EXERCISES OF EPIPHANY CHURCH

Bishop Canevin Officiated, Bishop Phelan Being Too Ill to Attend—Ceremonies Were Impressive—Large Crowd Present.

The new Church of the Epiphany, the temporary cathedral of the Roman Catholic diocese of Pittsburgh, was dedicated yesterday with impressive ceremonies. By virtue of the dedication mass may be solemnized in the church, but the formal consecration will not take place until the debt contracted in building the church has been liquidated. Yesterday was also the 8th anniversary of the consecration of the Right Rev. Richard Phelan as bishop, but he was unable to be present on account of illness.

While the ceremony of dedicating the exterior of the church was in progress hundreds of people were gathered in the streets bounding the edifice. Shortly after 10 a. m. the doors of the main entrance of the church facing on Washington street were thrown open and the procession of those who were to take part in the ceremony issued from the interior. The deacon, the Rev. Lawrence A. O'Connell, headed the march. On each side of him marched an acolyte, bearing a lighted candle. Father O'Connell carried a large crucifix. Sixteen altar boys followed the deacon, preceding the Rev. Miles Sweeney, master of ceremonies. Then came Fathers Boyle, Edwards, Kittell, Ryan and McHugh. The Rt. Rev. J. F. Regis Canevin, coadjutor bishop of Pittsburgh, the dedicating prelate, brought up the rear of the procession.

A short silent prayer was recited and then Father O'Connell led the way around the church and back to the front steps. During the march Bishop Canevin sprinkled the walls of the church with holy water, the priests of his entourage reciting the prayers for the occasion.

Since the abandonment of the old cathedral mass has been held in the basement of the church, but yesterday the first mass, a solemn pontifical high mass, was celebrated in the church proper. Bishop Canevin was the celebrant and was assisted by the Rev. Father Kittell as assistant priest, Father O'Connell as deacon, Father E. Boyle as sub-deacon and Father Sweeney as master of ceremonies. The church seats 1,300 persons and every seat was occupied.

Father Edwards preached the dedicatory sermon. In his discourse he spoke of the old cathedral, the center of Catholic life in the diocese, and referred regretfully to the absence of Bishop Phelan, for whose recovery he asked the prayers of the audience.

NEGRO PROBLEM A SERMON THEME

Rev. Daniel W. Shaw Tells How Black Man's Condition Can Be Bettered.

NEED SCHOOLS AND CHURCHES

Let Negro Mothers and Fathers Refuse to Allow Their Children to Become Criminals, Says the Methodist Clergyman.

"How Can We Better the Negro's Condition?" was the topic of a sermon preached by the Rev. Dr. Daniel W. Shaw, in the Warren Methodist Episcopal church last night. His text was from Psalms lxviii., 31, "Princes shall come out of Egypt; Ethiopia shall soon stretch her hands unto God." In his sermon Dr. Shaw said:

That the condition of the negro is sad and disheartening, is the one all question. How to dispel the shadows and bring him into light, how to remove despondency and inspire his hope, are vital problems. The text is a prophecy. How can we hasten its fulfillment in reference to the American negro? Let us educate him in books, in business, in social science. To this let the national government set itself.

Let us ask this generous nation to open to him the doors that lead upward, as even now the doors that lead downward are opened. If jails, work houses, saloons and penitentiaries are large enough to hold all negroes who come, let us ask that the school houses and churches are never too few and small.

Let negro mothers and fathers refuse to allow their children to become recruits in the ranks of the criminal classes. Teach the negro not to use his privilege to his own detriment. Let the negro put himself squarely against race violence and then plead with his own people to keep themselves from the nameless crime which provokes the mob.

Let us plead with our president and congress to preserve the Constitution and its several amendments inviolate. Let the negro seek in every legitimate way to stir up the pulpit and the press on the subject of human rights. To these two agencies Cato Sells owes her liberty today. If these two agencies can be aroused in the negro's behalf, he will take another bound forward as he did in the sixties.

Let negro preachers and papers fight disorderly houses and speakeasies among us and shut out of polite society the women who run sporting houses filled with colored girls and visited only by white men. Let the negro draw a line between the bottom and the top of the race and seek to impress the fact upon the world that all negroes do not belong to the same social grade. Let the negro spurn the man who tries to buy his vote and let him use his ballot as the Indian uses his tomahawk, to cut his way to liberty.

AT THE TRACTION PARKS.

Bands, Minstrels, Vocalists and a Balloon Ascension Furnished Entertainment.

There was "music in the air" at the trolley parks yesterday for there were concert bands, minstrels, singers and all-around entertainers in plenty. Then there were two balloon ascensions and at one of them a man, woman, cat and dog were carried skyward.

At Oakwood the Braddock Library band, under W. L. Mayer, gave both concerts. Some good singers, and other talent ward that my pledge was taken to quit drinking she would tell me all about Father Mathew and the work he was doing. She sent me one day a pledge and medal given by Father Mathew to those who signed his pledge. This medal is still in my possession after the lapse of April 10, 1838, being the day of Father Mathew's first great temperance movement.

Father Mathew commenced his labors in Cork, Ireland, and it was due to the influence and friendship of a Quaker named Martin that he took up the temperance work. I kept track of Father Mathew's travels, and when he came to Dublin I left for that city. I was most anxious to see him. He came on Sunday, and on Tuesday, July 23, I went to see him at the old St. Paul's cathedral, and had him administer the pledge to me. He also blessed my medal, and I signed his pledge, the number of which is 6,088,262. Thomas Scully, editor of the Catholic Observer, signed the pledge before me that forenoon.

Characteristics of Father Mathew.

Father Mathew was very lively, and I remember he joked when I told him I would never return to Ireland again. In 1873 we organized the first union in Pittsburgh, in the old cathedral school house. Bishop Michael O'Connor, Very Rev. Edward McManus, vicar general, and the Revs. Thomas Reynolds and John Tuigg were present at the cathedral then, and Father James Cosgrove organized the union.

The words of Father Mathew's pledge are: "I promise with divine assistance to abstain from all intoxicating liquors and to prevent as much as possible by advice and example intemperance in others."

I have attended all national conventions, and my badge always attracts attention, as there is only one more in existence in the United States.

I have been a member of St. Mary's church since it was organized, in 1853, and am the oldest living member both of it and the Total Abstinence union.

ORDERS TO ISRAEL HOLD GOOD TODAY

God Urges Us to March Canaanward, Says the Rev. T. Griffiths.

"Marching Orders" was the topic of a sermon preached by the Rev. T. Griffiths, in the Forty-sixth Street Baptist church last night. He took his text from Deuteronomy ii., 3, "Ye have compassed this mountain long enough; turn you northward." During the course of his sermon Mr. Griffiths said:

The contents of the book of Deuteronomy were given to Israel about a month before the death of Moses, or in the fortieth year and eleventh month of Israel's wanderings in the wilderness. Hence we find the laws previously given recapitulated and obedience to them enforced by continued and pathetic appeals to the people's long experience of the mercies and judgments of God during these 40 years.

In the opening chapters "Moses reviews their journeyings. "In the third month, when the children of Israel were gone forth out of the land of Egypt, the same day came they into the wilderness of Sinai." There they encamped before the mount for about one year, when they were commanded to move toward Canaan. Having reached the southern extremity, spies were sent out to view the land.

The majority of those on their return discouraged the people from entering and taking possession. Upon which the anger of the Lord was enkindled and they compelled to retrace their steps back into the wilderness, there to wander for 38 years more. At the expiration of that period they were again issued to break camp and march to Canaan. The orders are now obeyed.

The orders to Israel in the wilderness to march and possess the land are God's orders today to us. These people were more than through unbelief. They might have been in Canaan inheriting its rest and enjoying its milk and honey instead they were in a dry and thirsty land compassing day after day the barren slopes of Mount Seir.

REV. THOMAS CLAYTON'S SECOND ANNIVERSARY

Allegheny Divine Celebrates Call to Pastorate of First Congregational Church.

The Rev. Thomas Clayton, pastor of the First Congregational church, Franklin and Manhattan streets, Allegheny, preached a sermon yesterday morning in commemoration of his second anniversary as pastor of the church. His topic was "The Real Value of Godliness," and his text from First Timothy iv., 8—"Godliness is profitable unto all things." Mr. Clayton said in part:

For 22 years it has been my privilege to preach that religion is both profitable and necessary to men. During the past two years I have striven to convince all of you, if you needed any convincing, that godliness is valuable, that it is worth far more than it costs to realize it, and is indispensable to human welfare. My conviction of the necessity of godliness grows with years and increasing knowledge of human life.

By godliness is to be meant more than a mere profession of religion. The term implies much. A belief in God, and a wholesome fear of Him, that result in a devout worship including a conscious fellowship with Him. It implies a love for God, and obedience to Him in a whole-hearted service. Godliness may also be interpreted as God-likeness. The godly resemble the Divine Being in character and are in nature the children of God.

This godliness is profitable unto all and in all things. It is so proved in the history of nations. The prosperity of peoples has died out with their piety. Because the lack of religion means a loss in moral strength and a lessening of social security. Godliness is essential to well-being of the family, also to the welfare of the individual. It has the promise of the life present and the life to come.

SPECTATORS SPUR RACERS TO VICTORY

Sermon by Rev. J. M. Pascoe on "The Race, the Witnesses and the Prize."

In the Simpson Methodist Episcopal church, Allegheny, yesterday morning the pastor, the Rev. J. M. Pascoe, preached a sermon on "The Race, the Witnesses, the Prize." His text was taken from Hebrews xii. Mr. Pascoe said in part:

The New Testament writers taught no easy-going religion. The religious life from beginning to end depends on the determined fleetness of purpose with which we run. Let the runner for one moment pause and his competitors gain just that much advantage. Every such pause renders his defeat more probable. In this race at last evil men are called to the exercise of every power of mind and soul by Jesus, the author and finisher of our faith. The test urges us to keep our eye fixed on Him.

We are to remember the glory He left and the suffering He endured in order to make it possible for us to win this race. Things that might be lawful in themselves, as soon as they become hindrances, must be dropped. Especially must we guard against the sin to which our particular nature is most susceptible. It would be a little easier to racer's ambition to know that he was being observed by thousands of interested spectators. Our text points out that the Christian is surrounded by a cloud of witnesses who observe his every motion.

The men referred to in the previous chapter is simply given as a suggestion of the numberless throng who testify to the possibility of winning. They know we too may win. Nor are we to suppose that their testimony consists of only the few words they have left on record. When some persons come to the last hour do they not give clearest evidence that they see forms that others do not see, and hear voices that others do not hear?

BLOW TO ATHEISM.

Marriage of Austrian Christians to Non-Believers Declared Invalid.

VIENNA, Aug. 2.—(Special.)—In a judgment rendered by the supreme court here, yesterday, deciding that marriages between Christians and persons of no particular creed are invalid in the Austrian empire, the influence of the late Pope Leo is felt. The aged pontiff had watched with deep concern the spread of atheism in the empire. Emperor Francis Joseph took great interest in the suggestions offered by Pope Leo and a law was passed regulating marriages between people of different creeds.

Yesterday's decision was in a test case and had been looked forward to with unusual interest by the public by the emperor and especially by Pope Leo, who often expressed the wish that he might live to see a favorable decision rendered. The decision will affect a great many marriages and the radical parties will probably make an attempt to repeal the law, substituting a new civil marriage law in the next session of parliament.

MOUNTED POLICE RAID GAMBLERS IN A FIELD

Mounted police made another raid yesterday on the men who gamble on Sunday in the field of the North Homestead district in the Twenty-second ward. There were many groups scattered about, but they fled when the police appeared and only six men were captured.

CUT IN THE BACK.

Negro Badly Used Up in a Fight With Men of His Race.

John Porterfield, a Bellevue negro, was found at Fulton and Pasture street by Officer Andrew Terry early yesterday morning in a badly used up condition. He had a wound in his back, made with a penknife, and many bruises.

Porterfield said he was walking along Fulton street and got into an argument with a crowd of negroes. They knocked him down, kicked and beat him, and one of them stabbed him in the back. Porterfield was taken to the Center avenue police station and after Dr. A. E. McCandless had dressed his injuries he was sent to his home. His condition is not serious. No trace of his assailants could be found yesterday.

Lodger Took the Bank.

Mrs. Tessie Moore of No. 831 Second avenue reported to the police yesterday that a lodger at her home disappeared yesterday and took with him a savings bank containing about $4 and had gone through her husband's pockets and taken some change and a pawn ticket for a diamond ring worth $85.

NO BIG ADVANCE IN STOCK MARKET EXPECTED NOW

However, Situation Is More Favorable, as Liquidation of the Urgent and Disquieting Character Has Been Terminated.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Herald Building, Herald Square.
NEW YORK, Aug. 2.

The stock market, which may justly be compared with an overfreighted vehicle, has had a long and torturous journey since it set out last September to descend the hill to reach the level. It is measurably nearer to the end, and it has carried down the fearful load thus far without losing very much of value on the trip. Some of the casks have sprung a leak on the way, and there is less dead weight in water to carry. There is hope that the remainder of the trip may be completed in safety, but it is not yet at an end.

All things considered, the stock market of the week gave a very good account of itself. When the apprehension and foreboding of a week ago is recalled, the outcome of the interval in business casualties is but trifling. It is the unknown that Wall street fears the most, and it was the unexpected which happened. Instead of many failures involving houses of the first prominence, there were but two, one in New York and one in Boston, and neither of these, from a Wall street point of view, were considerable. Instead of panic, as Wall street understands the term, there was recovery in prices after the initial break.

If the promise of Monday's recovery was not fully borne out at the end of the week, when prices sagged, there is no cause for disappointment except to the speculative element. No one in his right senses can at this time look for a long sustained advancing market. Liquidation of the urgent and disquieting character terminated. That was the great point gained, and it is a matter of the greatest importance.

If Wall street is wise it will use the present interval of rest to put itself in the strongest position possible. The present is no time to take chances of a speculative character, dependent as it is upon a crop outcome which is highly uncertain, and the yet unknown effect on prices of the approaching business and industrial contraction. That the storm which has swept Wall street will later find full reflection in the trades and industries is the practically unanimous opinion of the leading authorities in the financial district.

The hopeful view of the expectation is that commerce and industry will be able to bear up as well under the storm as Wall street has done, and that the contraction will result in nothing more serious than in applying a necessary check upon overtrading and in preventing overproduction.

Wall street has many theories to explain why with insistent liquidation the loans of the banks do not increase. One party accounts for it by the shifting of loans from trust companies to banks, another to the redemption of maturing foreign loans, and so on in turn, including a theory of the withdrawal of out-of-town traders, sale of stock by out-of-town institutions, the carrying of stock and bonds as loans by local banks and the like. All these theories may play some part, in fact, but some of them have been advanced for months, and still the loans remain substantially unreduced.

In the Oil Fields

The greatest activity prevails in all the southwest fields, but the result is gratifying to a very limited degree. The average size of the new wells is growing smaller each month and operators are not meeting with the encouragement they deserve in their efforts to discover new pools. Wildcatting for the most part is confined to the territory lying inside of defined limits and principally with a view to connecting some of the older fields, rather than taking long chances on finding new producing territory outside of the prescribed producing areas. Activity in the year's opening of the more venturesome gave some little attention to testing in advance of the producing limits to the southwest, but at the present this class of work has been almost totally abandoned except by a few who are of a speculative turn of mind and have not given close attention to the conditions that exist as shown by the vast number of failures that have been chronicled up to that section in the past. With one exception, the large capital employed in testing this territory is new to the business. The old experienced operator long since concluded that it was useless to look for production where the formations do not exist.

In the deep sand districts in West Virginia the drill is kept bouncing even though the results are less satisfactory than some time ago, when 100-barrel producers were the rule. When the gas has been disposed of, now the greatest source of new production, the problem of a new supply will become more intricate. Looking over this, the most prominent of all fields, it can be seen at a glance that it is within a few miles south, southwest and west of the Pine Grove extension in Wetzel county. In the older part of this and in the Folsom district a majority of the wells completed within the past three weeks have come in very light. Drilling for 5 and 10-barrel producers at an average depth of 2,900 feet is a small incentive for continued activity. The money expended is slow in returning to the investor and it is a question if a 5-barrel pumper will ever pay for itself in production.

The failure of the new pools has stimulated the search for new producing formations, underlying the old in some of the fields drilled over and once productive in the upper formations. More deep wells have been drilled in the lower southwest during the past year than at any time in its past history. So far the best results attained in that direction have been found in the old Fairview district in Marion county, where probably 20 wells have been drilled down to the fifth sand and about one-half the number were formerly producers in the Big Injun formation, but had become unprofitable. The latest wells completed in this district have come in the best producers and lead to the conclusion that even better results may follow.

In work of an experimental nature, Ritchie county still leads all others in the lower southwest. Holders of leases along the North and South forks of Hughes river have not abandoned hope of finding a new pool. At this time there is nothing to indicate the probability that their hopes will be realized. Along the dividing line of this and Wirt county there is some wildcatting and the same is true of the dividing line between Wirt and Calhoun counties. In the first named there is a good deal of activity in the old Burning Springs district.

Work has increased in Pleasants county within the past two months, and the best producers are found in the old St. Marys district.

Across the Ohio river, in the "Yellowhammer" country, operators are very busy both in the old developments and in trying to find South of Burgettstown, Washington county, is the only new development in the local fields receiving any attention. Beaver county had the lead early in the year, but now the Burgettstown development heads it. In many of the old fields in which there has not been much completed for several years, there is a little new work in the way of drilling in odd locations where there chances to be room for another well.

GETTING COAL READY.

Rivermen Take Advantage of a Slight but Temporary Rise.

A slight rise occurred in the Monongahela river and gave the rivermen a chance to bring down a few boats of coal to the Pittsburgh wharf. The rise is expected to be temporary, and no effort will be made to take any coal below the mouth of the Monongahela.

The Allegheny river's rise of nearly two feet swelled the Ohio sufficiently to allow the Cruiser to finish her trip to Pittsburgh. She came in yesterday morning. The splashboards were raised on No. 1 dam a few days ago and that has assisted in permitting the upriver boats to be dropped ready for the next rise.

The stage of water at Davis Island dam at 9 o'clock last night was 4.1 feet, and the river was falling.

WEEKLY REVIEW OF MARKET PRICES

Embargo on New Hay—Oats Away Down—Eggs Sell Very Slowly.

An embargo has been placed on new timothy hay by the Pennsylvania Company lines, which local dealers regard as unnecessary, in as much as there are no accumulations, new hay moving out with freedom, buyers having to some extent at least, overcome their fear of it and are showing a willingness to purchase. Old hay holds very firm and is arriving in moderate quantities. Straw is in better supply than it was a week ago, receipts of oat and wheat straw having increased somewhat, and while quotations are unchanged, the market is easier, with holders more anxious to sell. Oats are weak, several declines having occurred since last Monday, the total reduction in the price amounting to 2 cents. Receipts have been fairly large, while demand is slow. Corn remains very firm and advances have been made both in car and shelled. No old rye is arriving just now and new is quoted considerably lower than figures which ruled for old a week ago. White middlings are scarcer and strong, with quotations higher, while bran is quiet at reduced figures.

Firmer conditions in the flour situation, brought about principally by the limited stocks of spot wheat, have caused millers to advance new 10c a barrel, a forward movement which has been followed by several local jobbers, while others have merely contented themselves with holding firm at former prices, withdrawing from the market. No old rye will be a general upward movement this week if millers adhere to the advance. No change was made in the price of refined sugar. Locally the situation is quiet, cutting being again the order of the day with some sellers, while most of the jobbers are making a strenuous effort to maintain the market. Refiners talk of coming advances, owing to higher raws. Coffee is quiet, Brazilian receipts being very heavy; the crop is an early one, which is a condition that invariably causes heavy receipts in the month of July. There is an inclination on the part of South American holders to strive for better prices, and they are trying to hold to stocks as long as possible. The general feeling prevails that coffee has gotten down almost as low as it can go, and that an upward movement must soon occur. Cereals are steady, with quotations well maintained. Canned goods and dried fruits are without feature, business passed through the week without change of price.

Southern potatoes have remained at unchanged quotations all week, while home grown have declined, receipts being on the increase. Sweets have commenced to arrive in the market, but are yet in right supply. Cucumbers are lower than they were a week ago, but are still higher than the average. Lettuce is higher, the market having gone away up during the week and then dropped back a portion of the way, closing above the range ruling at the beginning of the week. Egg plant has advanced. String beans are in limited supply, and stronger quotations rule. Peas are scarce, and much higher. Corn is coming in well, and quotations are easier. Apples are slightly higher. Peaches have had a week of scarcity, most of the southern consignments going further east, and local prices are higher. Cantaloupes are in great abundance, and prices have gone down. Watermelons are in plentiful supply at same prices as ruled at the opening of the week. Blackberries are a trifle higher, while huckleberries have declined. Pears, tropical fruits, California peaches and plums are higher, while pears from the same state are lower.

Butter declined 1½ cents a pound last Monday, and since then has ruled easy. Cheese is steady at former prices. Eggs are weak, demand having fallen off quite materially, and quoted figures are hard to maintain.

Poultry has remained high all week, but the outlook is for reduced quotations on chickens during the next day or two, as the supply is expected to increase.

READY FOR JUBILEE.

Three Days' Celebration to Be Accorded New Ruler of Saxe Altenburg.

BERLIN, Aug. 2.—(Special)—At Altenburg, the capital of the old duchy of Saxe-Altenburg, everything is in readiness for tomorrow's celebration of the jubilee of Duke Ernest, who, on August 3, 1853, succeeded his father as ruler. The duke is a close friend of Emperor William who has repeatedly shown his friendship. The celebration will last three days. A representative of the kaiser has already arrived.

The duke, who was born September 16, 1826, is a graduate of the University of Jena and has had a splendid military career, starting as second lieutenant in the Prussian regiment of the guard. In the war with France he showed extraordinary ability and courage at Toulon, Soisson and Paris. His splendid courage on the battle field won him the friendship of Count von Moltke. The duke was married in 1853 to Princess Agnes of Anhalt-Dessau, who died in 1897. His only child, Princess Marie, married Prince Albrecht of Prussia, and died in October, 1898.

Will Meet Next Sunday.

A second meeting was to have been held yesterday in St. Adelbert school, on South Pittsburgh street, for the purpose of the occupation of certain South Side streets by the Pittsburgh, Virginia & Charleston railroad, but the meeting was postponed until next Sunday evening. This was due to the absence from the city of the Rev. Father Christopher of St. Michael's Roman Catholic church, who is one of the prime movers in the matter.

TOO MUCH WORK FOR EXAMINERS

CANNOT COVER THE GROUND

It is Impossible for the Inspectors of State Banks and Trust Companies to Make An Examination Once a Year—Condition of Finances.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

HARRISBURG, Aug. 1.—Fourteen banks and 69 trust companies have been incorporated in Pennsylvania since November 21, 1902, the date of the last annual report of the state banking department. Commissioner McAfee said today that the work of the department is such that the number of examiners allowed by law is entirely inadequate to perform the duties imposed upon them.

The commissioner also said that it is impossible for the 19 examiners to examine the state banks and trust companies once a year, to say nothing of the 1,200 building and loan associations which also come under the supervision of the department. There were only 172 banks and trust companies when the department was created, in 1852. Now they number 418. Mr. McAfee says to give efficient service it is absolutely necessary that the force of examiners be increased and it is hoped by the department that the next legislature will provide for the additional help needed.

If the commissioner has just issued a statement showing the condition of the state banks and trust companies reporting to the department as of May 29, 1903, as compared with the reports of November, 1902. The statement follows:

PRISON SUITS OF GRAY SUPPLANT THE STRIPES

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 2.—(Special.)—Mrs. Maud Ballington Booth held two religious services here today in the state prison, and was given the privilege of seeing, for the first time in the institution, 300 convicts in suits other than that of stripes. The new clothes are of gray. The new uniforms are the third innovation established by George C. Osborne since he became head keeper. He has abolished the lock-step and the short hair cut.

LONDON MARKET HAS BLUE FUNK PERIOD

English Speculators, However, Are Hopeful for Rise When Summer Idleness Ends.

[SPECIAL CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]
(Copyright, 1903, by New York Herald Co.)

LONDON, Aug. 2.—Markets have now entered upon the month which above all others in the year is sacred to idleness. Complaints about the slackness of business from the part of brushed. The house is away holiday-making, but before a breathing space arrived on Friday dealers had an attack of the blues. "Blue funk" would perhaps best describe the feeling.

Liquidation was again evident. Rumors concerning the position of one or two firms were rife. Although some of these turned out to be unfounded, the distrust was so great that at times it was impossible to sell even moderate amounts of stock at reduced prices.

Altogether Capel court ended the week in the mood with which it started. The holidays will not be any the worse for a few days of rest.

The hope has been freely expressed that when business is resumed the position in New York may have improved, which, should that be so, would cause a feeling of greater confidence lately so sadly lacking in the market. Though at present not a single market can be said to be in a healthy condition, the only two really bad ones are Americans and Kaffirs. But in one respect Americans have the advantage of Kaffirs. They have kept their dividends all through the reaction, but, seeing that the greater part of the dividend money is shrewdly suspected to have been borrowed, that does not help them so much as might have been expected.

JOHN W. GATES NOW IN DECLINING HEALTH

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 2.—Stories of most alarming nature, and of apparent truth, are told of the state of health of John W. Gates, who is now here with his family. He is far from being the robust man he was when he first became known in Wall street. And it is his health instead of financial reverses that have kept him out of the market of late.

With his son Charles, Mr. Gates spent several hours today in his automobile. The weather was pleasant and the sun took the tingle out of the air, yet Mr. Gates sat in heavy wraps, and when he returned to the United States hotel he walked with an apparent effort from the street to the elevator.

"Mr. Gates," said a friend, "is a very ill man, and no one recognizes the fact better than he does himself. He is now taking much better care of himself than ever before in his life, but he continues to fail, and I do not believe that he expects any permanent relief. He is in constant pain, which accounts somewhat for the change in his appearance, which has so shocked his friends."

Fell Down the Stairs.

W. B. Andrews, 38 years old, of No. 207 West Montgomery avenue, Allegheny, fell down stairs at his home yesterday morning and sustained several severe scalp wounds. He was removed to the Allegheny General hospital.

Banking By Mail With Greater Pittsburgh's Savings Banks

The potent and almost magical force of newspaper advertising is being fully recognized by the factors of the world's commerce. The man of business, as well as the man of finance, agree upon the issue that judicious and proper advertising is the surest and quickest agency to bring satisfactory results. The era of newspaper advertising is therefore at hand. No commercial or financial enterprise seeking to attain the goal of success can do without it. Truly—it can be stated—proper newspaper advertising is the very staff of trade. The proof of this assumption has been oftentimes established in the cities of Pittsburgh and Allegheny. As an illustration it is only necessary to point to the advertising of financial institutions appearing in the columns of the daily newspapers from day to day. But a few years ago this department of advertising was rather meager and scant. Since the idea of banking by mail was adopted by the larger banks and trust companies, the volume of financial matter has been wonderfully increased. The banks, as a general rule, have recognized the fact that even in their line they must attract the pulse of the public through the medium of the press. Were it otherwise, it follows necessarily that their large and conspicuous advertising would no longer continue to appear. The microscopical scrutiny of the "man of money" makes quick decision on matters pertaining to the interests of the business. He quickly recognizes the good and speedily rejects the bad or unprofitable.

HOW TO SAVE MONEY.

The Subject Tersely Explained by the Advertising Manager for the Pittsburgh Bank for Savings.

On the question of saving money and its security, we below quote an extract from the pen of Mr. W. L. McCullagh, advertising manager for the Pittsburgh Bank for Savings. Mr. McCullagh's thorough experience on financial matters gives the subject especial importance. It was he who so aggressively took up the campaign of advertising banking by mail nearly six years ago. This resulted in an increase of deposits of over $10,000,000 within the period named. By the force of Mr. McCullagh's energetic and progressive advertising campaign the bank obtained a list of depositors from West Virginia aggregating over $180,000. This is what Mr. McCullagh says:

"As every great fortune had its first foundation laid in small savings, it follows that men and women obliged to hew their own path in this world must, in order to gain a competence, or possible wealth, spend less than they earn. This, in a nutshell, is the secret of getting ahead in the world, of becoming successful, independent and securing comfort in the autumn of life, when the vigor of youth and earning ability no longer remain. Many people do not save because they are disinclined to make a modest beginning. As a dollar is sufficient to open an account with this bank, there is no valid obstacle to making the necessary start for prosperity. The man who spends all he earns shows a lamentable lack of good sense, while the man who saves a portion of every earned dollar and deposits it in bank, at interest, as against the almost inevitable 'rainy day,' exhibits commendable wisdom and foresight."

The Pittsburgh Bank for Savings is one of the strongest and oldest banks in the country. It was organized in 1862, and its past record of 40 years is a guarantee for the future. It has a larger number of depositors (over 40,000) and a greater amount of money on deposit than any other capitalized savings institution in the state of Pennsylvania.

The assets of the Pittsburgh Bank for Savings are in excess of $13,500,000, giving every needed protection to depositors.

Continuously Advancing.

The North American Savings Company was chartered in October, 1901. Their location at the corner of Fourth avenue and Market street has proven to be one of the best locations for a savings bank in the city. Up until the present time over 3,000 accounts have been opened, and in order to give the customers of the bank and all savings depositors in Pittsburgh and Western Pennsylvania the greatest possible security for their money the board of directors have increased the capital and surplus of the bank to over $2,000,000. To show that the depositors appreciate the strength of the institution they are adding daily quite a large number of accounts on their ledger.

In order to simplify withdrawals for savings depositors, the rules of this institution have been made to read: "$100 can be withdrawn at any time without notice; $500 on two weeks' notice, and any amount above that on four weeks' notice." This gives the bank complete protection, and at the same time has been found to be a great accommodation to their depositors. In December, 1902, the banking room was found to be entirely too small and the property adjoining was purchased in addition to their present location, and they now enjoy much larger quarters. In order to handle the growing business of the bank, four tellers are employed, and one of the main considerations with the officers of the institution in employing tellers has been to get men who were not only capable, but who were

BIG ASSEMBLAGE AT CHAUTAUQUA

Largest Crowd of the Season There Yesterday to Hear Bishop Fowler.

PREACHED A STRONG SERMON

Dr. William H. Hickman, President of the Assembly, Spoke on "Christianity in Higher Education"—Wants the Bible in Public Schools.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CHAUTAUQUA, Aug. 2.—The first Sunday in August sees by far the largest crowd of the season within the gates. Fully 10,000 people attended the morning services in the amphitheater. The choir numbers nearly 500 and its rendition of "Open, Ye Portals," was the best work it has done this year.

Bishop Charles H. Fowler, who preached this morning, gave one of the strongest and most spiritual sermons ever heard here. He discussed the supernatural forces which sway the world and the universe. He said that Christ might have in a few words disclosed plans for business and finance which would have overwhelmed the wisest board of trade. He could have explained in the simplest utterances all the mysteries of science, but in all His teachings, He never mentioned colleges or universities.

His mission was a spiritual one and he never wavered from his purpose. The bishop believes that there are also supernatural forces of evil in the world. "I have never seen the great enemy," he said, "but I have seen his emissaries and know that he is near at hand. The work of the devil is being done and those who say it is not, are the ones who are nearest to 'him.'"

This afternoon Dr. William H. Hickman, the new president of the assembly, addressed the Sunday school on the subject of "Christianity in Higher Education." Dr. Hickman made a strong plea for the Bibles in the public schools. He said: "A hundred years ago Germany, the center of education, the land of scholars, threw the Bible out of her schools. Twenty years ago it was reinstated as a text book at the expense of the state. I believe the time is coming when Protestant, Catholic and Hebrew will want certain chapters and sentiments taught in the schools as a matter of literary form. I believe the Bible will be used as a text book and taught at the expense of the government, and that our ideals of laws and patriotism will be based on the teachings of the Bible."

A BACKWARD STEP.

Empress Dowager of China Successfully Stops All Talk of Reform.

PEKING, Aug. 2.—Political discussions which increased during the imperial court's recent policy of friendliness toward foreigners has suddenly stopped. The plan of the dowager empress to terrify the reformers by the execution of Shen Chien last Friday has been successful.

The affair is disappointing to the foreigners, who had hoped the empress dowager's association with the ladies of the legation would have a civilizing influence. Prince Su, the most liberal of the Manchu princes, who in March last issued a proclamation against incense burning to military idols because it was the chief rite during the Boxer troubles, is reported to have risked his office by opposing the execution of Shen Chien.

BANKING BY MAIL WITH GREATER PITTSBURGH SAVINGS BANKS

This bank was the first institution to keep open Saturday afternoon and evening for the accommodation of those who found it inconvenient to bank during business hours of the week.

The officers are: N. Wittmer, president; Francis J. Torrance, J. W. Walker, H. Walton Mitchell, vice presidents; W. F. Fraser, secretary and treasurer; L. E. Hunsemen, assistant secretary and treasurer, and C. O. Baker, bond officer. The directors are N. Wittmer, Francis J. Torrance, J. W. Walker, H. W. Mitchell, J. W. Cheswright, David Dickson, Owen McCann, H. W. Utting, H. C. Bair, E. C. Weaver and W. M. Laird.

Strongest Among the Savings Banks.

Upon the very bedrock of absolute solidity rests the foundation of the Germania Savings bank, corner Wood and Diamond streets. Its reputation as being one of the strongest of savings banks is known far and wide. For over half a century the "Germania" bank has held the esteem of the savings and business public. From the period of its inception it has thrived and prospered in a manner unmatched and unparalleled. And even amid the keen competition of the present day it is still going onward and upward in its march of progress. The Germania bank today enjoys a clientage of depositors second to none in the city. The success of this institution might be largely attributed to sound and sagacious business management. This is proved by the fact that the institution at no time has ever been affected by depressive business periods. At the present time the bank has over 60,000 depositors, many of which having been developed through the medium of newspaper advertising.

The Home Trust Company.

Fortified with a strong and representative board of directors, and with resources and energies abundant and unhampered, the Home Trust Company already has gained a most enviable position among the financial institutions of this city. Growth of any kind is interesting to watch and follow. The Home Trust Company at Wood street and Sixth avenue, after one month of business, can show a record of deposits that any kindred institution would be glad to acknowledge. If the history of the past 30 days continues it will be easy to see what an important factor the Home Trust Company will prove in Pittsburgh's financial records. On both sides—the business and saving—the volume of deposits is equally marked.

The Home Trust Company has well earned the recently applied title of the Strong Bank and the other appellation of the Bank of the Present and of the Future.

Dollar Savings Fund and Trust Co.

Most satisfactory, if not most phenomenal, has been the success of the Dollar Savings Fund and Trust Company of Allegheny. The deposits of this bank have increased $860,000.00 since January last. This is an average of $110,000.00 a month. Such excellent advances are seldom made in the banking business. This bank receives deposits by mail, which earn the same rate of interest and are given the same careful attention as though made in person. Money may be sent by registered mail, postoffice or express order, or by draft or check, and a pass book with proper entry, will be sent by return mail to the depositor. A courteous and accommodating treatment is promised to all patrons, dealing fairly with everyone, and as liberally with each customer as a due regard for the interest of all depositors will permit.

Where to Place Your Savings.

Your depository should be chosen with a view of obtaining absolute security of your principal, of receiving the largest rate of interest consistent with safe and legitimate banking, and of securing the best service and accommodations.

Pittsburg Trust Company has a capital of $2,000,000.00 and surplus and profits of $1,000,000.00, and a board of directors whose names are an assurance of integrity and conservatism.

Pittsburg Trust Company pays 4 per cent interest on savings deposits and 2 per cent on checking accounts.

Pittsburg Trust Company offers the convenience of a central location, courteous treatment by officers and employes, and the privilege of withdrawing $100 from your savings account without notice.

NINE ARRESTS AT HIGHLAND PARK

One Man Fell Down Hill and Broke His Leg Attempting to Escape.

MANY LABORERS ARE LAID OFF

Forty-two Employes Discharged at City's Resorts—Zoo Taking Crowds From Schenley—McKinley Park Is Being Made Attractive For Hill Top.

The thousands who went to Highland park yesterday all seemed to have made the trip to enjoy nature with the exception of eight men, who were arrested for drinking or playing cards. Officer Patrick Meehan and a squad of other policemen observed four men making frequent trips into a thicket. The policemen made a detour and came upon the men playing cards and drinking whisky from a flask.

When the officers approached the men took to their heels. One ran down the steep hillside, and so great was his haste that he turned a somersault and rolled down to the bottom. He was suffering from an injury to his right leg and was removed to the East End hospital. At the hospital it was discovered that both bones of his right leg were broken below the knee. He gave his name and address as John Danrosh, aged 45, of Rebecca street, Allegheny. The three other men in the party were caught and locked up at the East End police station. They gave their names as John Grubbs, Frederick Saulander and George Swank.

Four other men were arrested for drinking. They gave their names as Frank Hass, George Grosel, Joseph Long and Frank Zammerly. William Boyle started a dispute with the officers for arresting the men, and he was also taken into custody for interfering. Sunday a week ago the police arrested seven Italians for playing cards, and yesterday no visitors of that nationality gambled.

Highland park has many more visitors these days than Schenley park because the zoological garden offers an attraction that Schenley does not possess. There were hundreds yesterday who were willing to brave the long walk in the sun to the shady parts of Schenley park, but they were nearly all grown persons, who sought rest and quiet enjoyment. In Highland park the path from the end of the trolley line to the animal house was crowded all afternoon.

Work is slack at the parks just now, and 42 men, chiefly laborers, were laid off at the end of the week, 18 in Highland park, 18 at Schenley and six in the South Side parks. The chrysanthemum plants in the Phipps conservatory in Schenley park are being got in shape for the show in November. Superintendent George W. Burke said that the plants are sturdy and vigorous and give promise of making a splendid show.

Some important improvements are being made in McKinley park on the hill top. Heretofore the sewage from houses on the hill has been running into the beautiful ravine in the park, but a big sewer is being put in place and the ravine will soon be an attractive place. A fine road has been graded through the park. The road will not be macadamized until the park bureau has the money to do it with, but it can be used for driving in dry weather.

WHAT A WIFE'S AMBITION DID

Duke of Marlborough Will Work Hard Owing to the Vanderbilt Energy.

HIS NEW JOB NO SINECURE

As Chamberlain's Understudy He Must Develop Into a Hustler, Thus Gratifying the Duchess' Desire For Future Power.

(Special Correspondence of the Gazette.)

LONDON, July 25.—There is something so incongruous in the idea of the nice, easy-going little duke of Marlborough working eight hours a day for a living of $150 a week, that it will be some time before the general public will recover from its astonishment. More strange still, he got the appointment through the good services of the greatest hustler in England—Joseph Chamberlain—whose assistant the duke will be as soon as he takes official possession of his new post, that of under-secretary of state for the colonies.

This is regarded as the latest manifestation of the Vanderbilt energy, as applied by the duke's American wife. His last previous government job was that of paymaster-general, which of late years had been looked upon as a sinecure. The duke paralyzed the clerks in the office by turning up at unexpected moments, and insisting on looking over books. He made suggestions, too, and created quite a commotion in the staid, musty office, making incidentally a great reputation for punctuality. He never missed an appointment by so much as a minute.

His work at the paymaster-general's office will be as nothing at all to the toil he has undertaken in the colonial office. He must be in his office, overlooking famous little old Downing street, every morning at 11 o'clock. All the correspondence which is considered too important for the heads of departments must be submitted to him for replies. On many days this work alone will occupy two hours. He then has to deal with confidential correspondence with his private secretaries for perhaps another two hours. When parliament is sitting he will have to be in his place in the house of lords to answer all questions affecting the colonies, but in this connection it will be merely the mouthpiece of Mr. Chamberlain, to whom all questions must be submitted before a reply is given in the lords.

During the sitting of parliament the duke will have to do at least eight hours' hard work daily. The private rooms of the secretary and under secretary adjoin each other and have communicating doors, but, although the under secretary is frequently called upon to go to Mr. Chamberlain's room, the latter hardly ever has been seen in the under secretaries' department, and will not be likely to begin now that he has a duke for an understudy.

Although his appointment to the colonial office was made public only this week, the duke had been there several times studying the routine of work, and inquiring into the various details. He has not yet, however, made what is known in office as his "official entry." This is an event which is surrounded with much pomp and circumstance. He is taken in hand by Mr. Chamberlain, who introduces him to the functionary known as the permanent under secretary for the colonies, and this personage in his turn introduces the duke to an army of lesser lights, who are described as heads of departments.

The duke receives a salary of $7,500 a year, and, strangely enough, several of the men whom he will have to boss receive an equal amount. The duke is supplied with two private secretaries, one of whom receives $750 a year. The other man is usually a member of some distinguished family, who thinks it beneath his dignity to accept payment for his services at all, and he is usually the more energetic of the two, because he seeks position merely as a stepping stone to a government job carrying substantial emoluments.

The duke will control altogether about 150 men, four of whom occupy the position of assistant secretaries, by virtue of their qualifications and years of service. The remainder, many of whom have brilliant university records, and some of whom have the bluest of blood, may be described as mere clerks, and who receive salaries varying from $250 to $500, or a little more.

It is not to be supposed from the young duke's new appointment that he or rather, his wife, has lost sight of the much-desired post as viceroy of India. The work as under secretary for the colonies will give him the best sort of training for succession to that post when Lord Curzon retires. The duchess of Marlborough will never be really happy until she steps into the shoes of her fellow-American, Lady Curzon.

SHOULD EXTEND THE WORK.

Representative Cooper Wants Department of Interior Investigated.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—(Special.)—If the administration desires to do itself justice it must extend the investigations which are now going on in the department of the interior and several other departments, remarked Representative S. B. Cooper of Texas. "I mention the department of the interior first because I think it is most in need of an investigation. A good overhauling there will, in my opinion, produce results more surprising than these in the postoffice department.

"President Roosevelt is thoroughly honest, and it is to be hoped that he will force the investigation until he has rooted out every rogue in the government service. It has afforded me great satisfaction to hear of the way the tricksters on the outside have been nabbed."

FORECASTS THE ELECTION.

German Journal, Considering Kishineff Situation, Says a Jew Will Be President.

BERLIN, Aug. 2.—(Special.)—The Kreuz-Zeitung publishes a long article on the growing power of the Jews in the United States and declares that President Roosevelt was actually forced by the Jews to accept the Kishineff petition for transmission by the state department. The article ends with these words:

"There are many indications in America which show that it is not impossible that a Jew will be the next president. The happiest solution of the Jewish question in Russia would evidently be that the Russian government pay the transportation of 5,000,000 Jews in Russia to the United States, where there seems to exist so much love and sympathy for them."

OBJECT TO THE HORSES.

Select Cottagers of Elberon Want a Blue Ribon String Removed.

LONG BRANCH, N. J., Aug. 2.—(Special.)—Exclusive Elberon is aroused through the invasion of Dr. William Woodend, his horse show horses and a retinue of servants, domiciled for the summer in the William V. Brokaw cottage on Ocean avenue. Since the arrival of Dr. Woodend they claim the quietude of this aristocratic section has been aroused, and steps have been taken with a view of seeking an injunction.

Dr. Woodend built a one-story shed, stable or paddock, which is occupied by horses, stablemen and others, who use loud, offensive and boisterous language, and Dr. Woodend uses the private road for exercising purposes, much to the annoyance of the cottagers. The petition describes the place as a nuisance and prays that the court may order its abatement.

Dr. Woodend, at the Monmouth county horse show, won several blue ribbons.

AGAIN REPORTED DEAD.

News From Tangier Announces Death of Pretender to the Throne.

TANGIER, MOROCCO, Aug. 2.—It is reported that the pretender to the throne, Bu Hamara, has died of wounds received.

Bu Hamara has been reported dead or killed a number of times since he first raised the standard of revolt October 31, 1902. The last large fight in which he was reported to have been engaged occurred June 16, when he defeated the war minister of Morocco with a loss to the latter's forces of 600 men. At that time no mention was made of his having been wounded.
